MRS. ANNETTE COULTER BROMFIELD

Mrs. Bromfield Dies At Author-Son's Farm

Mrs. Annette Coulter Bromfield, widow of Charles Bromfield, died at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, at the home of her author-son, Louis Bromfield, Malabar Farm, after a brief illness. She had been in failing health for the past several years.

Mrs. Bromfield was born in Springfield township, April 28, 1863. Her parents were Robert and Addie Barr Coulter, pioneer residents of Richland county.

Following her marriage to the late Charles Bromfield, former Richland county treasurer, the family lived in Mansfield for many years and it was here that their three children were born—two sons, Louis and Charles, and a daughter, Marie, who married Stanley Mauger and whose death occurred 10 years ago. Charles is now a resident of New York city.

With the exception of 25 years, during which she lived in New York City, Mrs. Bromfield spent her entire life in this community. She returned three years ago to make her home with her son, Louis and family at Malabar.

Church Worker.

She was a member of the First Congregational church and during her residence in Mansfield was active in church and literary circles. She also gained recognition as a writer and a number of her articles and short stories appeared in widely read magazines.

It was her interest in the field of literature that proved a constant inspiration during the boyhood and young manhood of her son, Louis, who credits his mother with the driving power which resulted in his outstanding success as a writer.

Surviving, in addition to two sons, are one grandson, John Mauger, of Chicago; and three granddaughters, Anne, Hope and Ellen Bromfield, of Malabar.

Memorial services will be held in Grace Episcopal church Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard officiating. Arrangements are in charge of the Finefrock funeral home and private services and burial will be held at a time to be announced later.

JURORS CALLED FOR JAN. 20 TO HEAR 32 CASES

Two Second-Degree Murder Charges To Be Studied.

Two cases of second-degree murder and three involving rape charges will top the docket of 32 alleged law violations which will face the Richland county grand jury convening Jan. 20, the county prosecutor's office reported today.

Yesterday a jury venire of nine men and six women was issued for the session. It was estimated the jury would need three days in which to clear up its docket, one of the largest in recent years.

Charged with second-degree murder are Clarence Black, 224½ North Main street, and John Owens, 257½ North Main street.

Black is accused of fatally stabbing Richard Jones, Demo club bartender, in an argument over $2.50 at the club headquarters Christmas morning. Owens is charged with slaying Alonzo B. Lindsay, 266½ North Main street, in a shooting fray in an alley off North Diamond street last Nov. 2.

Charges Listed.

Other defendants and the charges against them include:

Robert Lee Andrews, rape; Roy Briggs, rape and robbery; Charles W. Williams, assault with intent to rape; Paul Malitch, possession of burglary tools; George Malitch, carrying concealed weapons; Hilary Harris, unarmed robbery; Abe Smith, unarmed robbery; James Leslie Weyant, obtaining money under false pretenses; John DeSanto, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

FBI ACCUSES FARM CREDIT OFFICE HEAD

Officers Find $11,230 Buried In Backyard After Kidnap Threat Story Exploded.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Harry D. Bechtel, 29, Medina county branch manager of the Farm Production Credit association, was arrested today by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the embezzling of approximately $23,000 in government funds.

Special FBI Agent E. C. Richardson said Bechtel was taken in custody at his home near Seville where $11,230 of the stolen funds were dug up in his backyard.

Richardson said Bechtel came under suspicion several weeks ago while he was managing his office in Ashland.

(H. G. Olin, secretary-treasurer of the Ashland district PCA office, informed the News-Journal that Bechtel was an association representative of the PCA in charge of the Medina office, which was under the supervision of the Ashland office.

(He said Bechtel worked for the PCA for approximately a year, and left on Dec. 28. As far as he knew, Olin said, Bechtel did not live in Ashland.)

When first questioned, Richardson said, Bechtel said that two unidentified men had come to his office and demanded $25,000 under threat of doing bodily harm to his two children.

Story Fails to Hold Up.

Richardson said the story failed to hold up.

"We went to Bechtel's home this morning," Richardson said, "and he paced off a certain distance in his backyard. We then dug down about three feet and uncovered a capped lead pipe in which the $11,230 was concealed. Bechtel admitted the money was part of what he had stolen."

The FBI agent said that Kelsey Benedict and Clarence A. Hicks, of the Farm Credit administra-

Fictional Death Notices Alarm Tiro Residents

TIRO — Fictional accounts of the death of seven Tiro high school pupils in "make-believe" accidents shocked scores of residents here when published on the school page of the weekly newspaper, the Tiro World.

Many readers accepted the stories as true, despite a notice printed at the top of the page which read:

"This issue is compiled entirely of work done as regular classroom assignments. No Junior or Senior has actually met with death."

The page was devoted to essays and poems, since the school was closed for the holiday vacation. All the essays were written as obituaries of various students.

Some readers called the newspaper office to protest publication of the stories.

Four Bills Seek Bonus for Vets

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —A new drive for a veterans bonus was underway in congress today.

Four bonus bills already were in the house hopper despite President Truman's statement that the government program for aid to veterans is complete except for minor adjustments.

'BITTER' BRITISH BRIDES SCARCE, BUT TALK LOUD

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Of the 42,000 British war brides who have arrived to join their husbands in the United States, only 29 were left stranded in New York by husbands who changed their minds, authorities said today.

The trouble with the bitter British brides, said the people who know, is that they talk too much. Loud, too. Makes you think there are thousands of them.

But it isn't so, said the brides, the husbands and the Red Cross, which takes care of the girls who need a round trip ticket for their matrimonial journey.

Those British papers who called them "brides of despair," were not completely informed, said some.

Daniel Green, administrator of social services for the Red Cross, said if there were hundreds of British war brides "stranded and living in squalor in New York, awaiting passage back to Great Britain," as charged in the London Daily Mail, that his organization certainly knew nothing about it.

"Out of 42,000 war brides," he added, "less than 50 arrived here and found that their husbands had refused to receive them. Some hundreds, who were accepted by their husbands, did decide later on that they had had enough and wanted to go back home."

Wanted-- A Barber

NORTH ROBINSON—This Crawford county village of 300 persons literally has a three-month growth of hair in protest against the high cost of haircuts.

Mayor J. A. Baker said today the village is "looking for a good barber who won't charge too much."

By "too much," he said, he meant anything over 50 cents.

He disclosed that the village council, meeting Monday night to consider the problem of a "barberless" town, decided to advertise for a barber.

North Robinson Hunts Haircutter Who Won't Charge Over 50 Cents

Council authorized the mayor to advertise in area papers, offering to furnish a shop and living quarters for a village barber—at a nominal rent of $10 a month in a village-owned building.

"We had a barber here up to three months ago, when he raised his price to 65 cents," the mayor said. "We thought he charged too much and quit patronizing him, and he left town."

Included among the newspapers to which Mayor Baker sent the "wanted, a barber" advertisement was the News-Journal in Mansfield, where the prevailing price for haircuts is $1.

COUNCIL PARES FUND REQUESTS

$125,000 Slashed From City Operating Measure For '47 By Committee.

Mansfield's 1947 cost-of-operations bill stood at $967,000 today following a $125,000 slash made in the original bill by city council's finance committee.

The bill goes to council as a whole Friday. If passed without further, major reductions it will mark the highest annual appropriation ever set up for the city's operations.

It is expected, however, that city expenses this year will go over the $1,000,000-mark. Some of the money cut from the original bill is to be replaced piecemeal during the year, Finance Committee Chairman Russell Porch said.

Porch said one reason the bill marks a $140,000 boost over last year's is that council is planning to make far fewer supplemental appropriations this year.

* * *

Wants It to Last.

Annually the appropriation bill is, in effect, boosted by additional appropriations made throughout the year. This year, Porch said, an attempt is being made to set up all the money needed at once.

Other major cuts of $16,500 and $15,000 were made in the water fund and the city building fund, respectively, the finance committee chairman said.

Some $10,400 was slashed from the parking meter fund and $8,000 from the garbage fund because the total proposed appropriations would have topped estimated income, Porch explained.

He said, however, that revised garbage collection fees may result in increased income for that department and that new parking meters, scheduled for purchase, probably would boost that department's income.

C. F. UNCKRICH, OF GALION, DIES

GALION—Clarence F. Unckrich, 61, president of the American Steel Vault company of Galion, died at his home on Park Lane at 7:30 a. m. today after an illness of three months.

Born in Sandusky in 1885, Mr. Unckrich came to Galion as a boy. He was a director of the Eagle Crusher company, vice president and director of the Galion Building and Loan company, and a director of the First National bank of Galion.

He was active in the Ohio State Association of Elks, having served as past exhalted ruler of the Galion lodge, and past district deputy grand exalted ruler. He was credited with instituting inter-city Elks' visitations.

He also was active in Masonic work as a member of Galion F. and A. M. No. 414, Masons, and Galion chapter 142, R.A.M.; Scioto Consistory of Columbus, Aladdin Temple Shriners and the temple drum and bugle corps.

He is survived by his widow, Marguerite, one daughter, Mrs. Bert Deibig, of Galion; one sister, Mrs. Carl Knoble, of Sandusky, and a brother, A. F. Unckrich of Columbus.

Friends may call at home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Army, Navy Officials Seek Unity On Merger

WASHINGTON—(INS)—High war and navy department officials today sought a compromise on the merger issue in the hope of heading off a renewed battle on Capitol Hill.

Congressional armed services committees are expected to mark time on unification bills to give the army and navy time to get together on a plan both will accept.

Despite President Truman's renewed and flat recommendation for a thorough merger, it was learned that army and navy officials are negotiating to see whether they can get together in something acceptable to the two departments and congress.

Budget Cuts Feared.

An official who disclosed the compromise move added his opinion that fear of crippling budget cuts is spurring the compromise efforts to get together wherever money can be saved.

As far as the navy is concerned, any compromise on unification certainly would stop short of putting both services under a single cabinet secretary.

On Capitol Hill Sen. Gurney (R) S.D., new chairman of the merged armed forces committee, indicated that all of President Truman's national defense recommendations will come before his committee. He said:

"I can find no place where I am in disagreement with the president's outline. I might, of course, disagree with details when they are revealed."

Meanwhile, merger foes were confident that they have seven votes in the 13-member committee.

WARM SPRINGS CO-FOUNDER DIES

Henry Pope, native of Crestline, who became a hosiery and textile manufacturer and co-founder with the late President Roosevelt of the Warm Springs (Ga.) Infantile Paralysis foundation, died yesterday at his home in Chicago at the age of 78.

No known relatives survive. Pope's parents operated a lock shop in Crestline during his youth. The Schill Manufacturing company now occupies the site. Also remembered was the Vidett Press, Crestline newspaper, which Pope's brother, William, operated.

From their West Bucyrus street home in Crestline, Pope's family moved to Bucyrus for a short time before leaving for Kankakee, Ill., where Pope founded the Paramount Textile Machinery company and the Neumode Hosiery company which operates retail stores throughout the midwest. The textile company is an outgrowth of the Paramount Knitting company.

Pope donated the site for the Warm Springs Foundation in 1927 and served as vice president and trustee until ill health forced him to resign last March.

At the time of his death, Pope was chairman of the board of Bear Brand Hosiery company, a manufacturing concern with branches in downstate Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Marshall Quits China to Take Byrnes' Post

Appointment Puts Five-Star General In Limelight as Possibility for Dem Presidential Candidacy.

(Compiled From Wire Dispatches)

The sudden resignation of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and appointment of Gen George C. Marshall to succeed him shook the world's foreign offices and chancellories from London to Nanking today.

The question on the tongue of every diplomat was: What changes will Marshall bring into American foreign policy? And the urgency with which an answer was sought was testimony to the paramount role of the United States in world affairs.

Washington's report that Marshall would steer the United States on the bearings fixed by Byrnes was taken at something less than face value by diplomats cognizant of the importance of personalities in the conduct of U. S. foreign policy. The initial reaction in world capitals was wait-and-see.

Amid all the hubbub over the change, the only one of the central figures who had nothing whatever to say for the moment was Marshall himself. He was somewhere over the western Pacific, flying home from 13 arduous months in China, where he had been trying in vain to promote peace between the Nationalists and Communists.

Leaving Nanking about half an hour after word of his new assignment was released here, Marshall planned a three-day stop in Honolulu, where he will join Mrs. Marshall, then a flight to Washington late next week.

* * *

Presidential Possibility.

Despite world uncertainty, U. S. diplomatic and congressional leaders agreed that Marshall would "carry on" with the talk of constructing world peace where Byrnes leaves off.

Hence capital interest in his future policies was equalled if not exceeded by the fact that as secretary of state the five-star general will become first in line for succession to the presidency and—whether he likes it or not—a leading figure among the 1948 Democratic presidential possibilities.

Democratic and Republican members of congress alike lauded Marshall's selection, tempering their comment only with regret at Byrnes' departure.

At 66, Marshall is stepping into one of his most difficult and critical tasks. As army chief of staff he did much to design the strategy of Allied victory. As secretary of state he will have possibly a greater responsibility—that of working with the foreign ministers of other major powers to complete the structure of peace.

* * *

Byrnes' Health Poor.

Byrnes, only little more than a year older than Marshall, attributed his resignation to doctors' advice early last year that he had to "slow down." He said he could not remain secretary of state and do that.

Byrnes first asked last April 16 to be allowed to resign on July 1, expecting the European satellite peace treaties would be complete by then.

This was revealed in an exchange of correspondence with President Truman made public by the White House last night.

When the treaties were not finished in mid-1946 Byrnes agreed with Mr. Truman to see the job through. It was finished in early December and on the 19th Byrnes restated his desire to quit effective Jan. 10 or as soon as his successor was qualified.

TRUMAN HITS TAX CHANGES

President Calls For Higher Wages, Increased Social Benefits, Rent Control.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman told congress today the way to keep America prosperous in 1947 is to leave taxes alone, raise minimum wages, increase social security benefits, broaden coverage of the wage-hour law and maintain rent controls.

It would be "unsound fiscal policy" to cut wartime income taxes, the chief executive declared in his first annual economic report to the legislative branch.

The main approach to balancing "real purchasing power" with productive capacity, he said, "must be through reduced prices."

Taxes should be kept at present levels, Mr. Truman asserted, because of "the rule of sound public finance that calls for surplus in government revenues over expenditures while employment is high and the total income is large."

Voices Caution.

He conceded the tax burden is great and should be lightened "as soon as possible," but he cautioned:

"When reductions come, it will be important that they be fairly and equitably distributed, that they contribute to the maintenance of purchasing power by reducing the burden on the mass of consumers, and that they help provide the work and business incentives essential for a high level of production."

The president's lengthy report, based on studies by his new economic council, began on this cheerful note:

"As the year 1947 opens America has never been so strong or so prosperous. Nor have our prospects ever been brighter."

Mr. Truman said he and the American people reject "the notion we must have another depression."

In addition to immediate action toward raising minimum wages, the president said, congress should adopt a long-range housing program, encourage construction of 1 million homes in the next 12 months and adjust public assistance, old age and survivors insurance benefits under the social security act to meet cost of living increases. Mr. Truman mentioned no specific figures in his minimum

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—After a difficult inquiry which lasted about three years, special agents of the treasury were able to present information to the federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., indicating that Joe Fay, the plug-ugly gangster boss of the Operating Engineers' union of the American Federation of Labor, had concealed income of $197,000 in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

On Dec. 10, the grand jury indicted Fay, charging that he had evaded taxes of $137,548.

On Dec. 18, the Associated Press reported from Newark that the case was assigned to Judge Thomas F. Meaney and that Edgar H. Rossbach, the United States district attorney, had announced that the trial was set to begin about Jan. 6.

Fay, though a rough, brutal hoodlum and a drunkard, is also one of the most audacious and resourceful political racketeers in the New Deal-underworld axis. He is a henchman of Frank Hague, the Jersey boss, and an intimate social and political companion of most of the influential judges, public prosecutors and other officials of the Hague machine in Newark and Jersey City. He has lived in Newark for years and is a member of the biggest social club of Hague politicians. His jury influence is so strong that the average harmless citizen, drawn for duty, might be put in fear of ruinous reprisals of one kind or another, including physical violence.

* * *

JUDGE MEANEY, named to hold the trial, is an old, intimate friend and political protege of Fay's friend, Hague. He owes his appointment to Hague, an appointment which aroused strong objections in the United States sale before he could be confirmed. Altogether, the objections to Meaney's confirmation were such as to justify the most attentive scrutiny of his conduct of the Fay trial if he should fail to disqualify himself. Certainly Meaney could not impair public confidence in the honesty of the trial and the court if he should decide to let the Fay case go to some other judge, preferably a man from some other state.

Mr. Rossbach, the district attorney, also is a member of the Hague political group. It will be up to him to present the case against Fay and, of course, to take any precautions that he believes necessary and wise, to prevent tampering and to exclude from the box of jurors who have relations with Fay or might be sensitive to temptation or pressure. The possible ramifications of influence are infinite. A juror might be in debt to a bank controlled by the machine. He might have a relative in employ of Fay or the machine. He might be a contractor or closely related to a contractor who could be ruined by union trouble from Fay.

Such are possibilities that a prosecutor is supposed to explore carefully in selecting a jury.

In this case, the judge, the prosecutor and the defendant all are members of a notorious political organization. The defendant is a desperate, ruthless and powerful politician who has been fighting for three years to keep out of prison. And he is known to have the sympathy of a circle of cynical and powerful old gang politicians who say they feel he has been punished enough by his worriment the expense of his previous trial in New York and the appeals.

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON—(INP)—A fellow never knows (when he's a congressman, that is) what he'll start by opening his mouth. Ask Rep. Frederick C. Smith, the lawmaker medico of Marion, O.

All he wanted, announced Republican Smith, was a few minutes for some comments on President Truman's state-of-the-union message. He for one, he said, was disappointed by the president's labor program. "Of all the piddling ideas," he said, "that one . . ."

Bang, went the gavel. His time was up. There was a roar and a rustle from the Democratic side of the chamber. Up jumped Rep. John E. Rankin, the white-haired whirlwind from Tupelo, Miss., to say that Mr. Truman was a great president. Probably would continue to be a great president for several more years to come, he said.

Hey, cried Rep. Smith. He hadn't meant to start any political argument. Rep. Rankin said he wasn't talking politics, but facts. Bang. Time up.

Three minutes would be about right for him to discuss the 1948 presidential election, said Rep. Edwin A. Hall, the Republican banker from Binghampton, N. Y. "Since the subject already has been brought up," he added. Nobody objected.

* * *

SO REP. HALL, a prize winning orator, said there was no doubt Mr. Truman would be the Democratic candidate again next year.

"I don't know about that," snapped Rankin.

Rep. Hall ignored him. Said in New York there is a fellow named Dewey who has a better chance still of being elected president next year.

"Candidates for president who start this early usually run a cold trail," observed Rep. Rankin.

"The governor of New York has said nothing about being a candidate," Rep. Hall retorted. He was getting sore: his fellow Republicans were beginning to squirm. The Democrats were enjoying themselves. Bang. Rep. Hall's three minutes were up.

"This is a very interesting discussion," suggested Rep. John W. McCormack of Dorchester, Mass., who used to be the leader of the majority when that comprised of Democrats. "I move that the gentleman be allowed five minutes more."

SPEAKER Joseph W. Martin, jr., of North Attleboro, Mass., news paper publisher, listened carefully for objections, but heard none. Rep. Hall got his five minutes more.

"I thank the gentleman," he said bowing in McCormack's direction. "I believe the sun is rising for the Republican party."

A Democratic congressman, so newly arrived that nobody in the press gallery recognized him, made a crack about garden variety Republicans not knowing much about what the Republican bigwigs intended. Rep. Hall said, yes he supposed he was a garden variety Republican. Other congressmen tried to join the fray.

Mr. McCormack was seeking to sprinkle a little oratorical gasoline on the blaze when Hall's five minutes ran out. In the nick. The curly-haired Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Ind., Republican leader, shouted quickly: "I move the house be now adjourned."

Republican ayes drowned out Democratic noes. "The ayes seem to have it," intoned Speaker Martin, "the ayes have it." Bang. Rep. Smith got out of there. I don't know whether he looked dumbfounded at what he'd started, or merely poker-faced. Keep a close eye (ed.) on these precincts for further official word on who'll be the next president.

CITY PROVIDES HEAVY PENALTY FOR ICY WALKS

Ordinance Requires Occupants To Clear Away Snow.

Snow or ice-covered sidewalks can be costly to home owners and occupants alike, a check of city ordinances showed today.

A fine of not less than $5 and not more than $50 may be levied against residents for failure to clean ice or snow from walks by 9 a. m. of the day following a storm.

Since snow first fell in Mansfield this winter, at least four persons have required hospital treatment as the result of falls on icy or snow-covered walks. One, an 82-year-old woman, is still confined to General hospital with a broken hip bone.

The city ordinance concerning sidewalks, adopted in 1909, requires "occupants" of buildings to keep walks in front of their homes cleared of ice or snow.

Owners must keep walks cleared in front of unimproved or unoccupied properties "except if exempt by the Department of Public Service," the ordinance states.

Persons living in or owning corner homes must keep walks along the sides, as well as in front, cleared.

LOAN COMPANY KEEPS OFFICERS

R. W. Hartman was reelected president of the Mechanics Building and Loan company yesterday, and other officers were renamed at the annual stockholders' meeting.

A. E. Courtney, secretary-treasurer, said the loan company "enjoyed a nice year in 1946 with a sizeable balance left in the reserve fund."

Officers reelected were Dr. W. H. Wolford, vice president; Courtney, and William A. Bowers, assistant secretary. Members of the board of directors are, Hartman, Bowers, Courtney, Dr. Wolford and H. T. Siegenthaler.

ACCIDENT INJURIES FATAL TO FARMER

BUCYRUS—Chester W. Hart, 32, Crawford county farmer, died yesterday in City hospital of injuries received Dec. 21 when he was trampled by a bull on his farm.

Surviving are his widow, Vivian; two daughters, Lois and Ruth; his father, Alonzo, of Marion; four brothers, Robert, of Whetstone; Harold, of Bellefontaine; Lloyd, of Waldo, and Clifford, of Yuma, Ariz., and four sisters, Mrs. Helen Picketts, of Kirkpatrick; Mrs. Gladys Bayles, of Bellefontaine; Mrs. Gertrude Baker of Caledonia and Mrs. Katherine Reid, of Marion.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Wise funeral home, with the Rev. J. P. Cordero, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

$200,000 HATCHERY FORMED IN SHELBY

SHELBY — Incorporation papers were granted in Columbus yesterday for two Shelby firms with a total capital of $250,000.

The Pay Streak Hatcheries, Inc., was incorporated for $200,000, by Carl R., Robert R. and Muriel Daugherty, all of Shelby. The firm, established in 1910, operates hatcheries in Shelby, Mansfield and Tiro, and a poultry farm at Tiro.

Carl R. Daugherty, president of the company, said the firm plans further expansion and that the incorporation was for this purpose.

Also incorporated yesterday was the W. C. Gump company. The concern will operate a garage and automobile sales agency in Shelby. The firm has a capitalization of $50,000.

WAA Agent To Visit City

Mansfield area veterans who want to take advantage of their priority rights to purchase surplus property can now be certified in Mansfield by a traveling counsellor from the War Assets administration, it was announced today.

The counsellor will be available in the former visiting nurses' room at the city building from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., next Monday. Thereafter he will be at the same location every other Monday.

Veterans who find it necessary to be certified immediately can be serviced during this week at WAA's district office in Akron. The office, located in the old Library building, is open from 8:15 a. m., to 5 p. m., weekdays and until 1 p. m. on Saturday.

HEEEN SPEAKS TO CO-OP MEMBERS

Eer Hedeen entertained Mansfield Co-operative club members and guests last night with a talk and movies of a trip made with his family to Sweden last summer. He spoke at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Heen pointed out that few people realize the true reason why America is so prosperous and so far ahead of the rest of the world.

"It not because we have so much extra brain power," he said, "but because we have had such great natural resources which have attracted people from Europe. Resources and people build a nation."

He pointed out that Sweden, with a homogeneous population, did not have the difficulties that a nation with the mixture of nationalities, races and creeds such as exposes the United States.

$6,000 Permit Issued to Church

Permits for the construction of a $6,000 church and an $8,000 home in Mansfield were issued yesterday.

The church permit went to the Pilgrim Holiness congregation for the construction of a cement block building at 271 Grace street.

KELLEY, FOR 23 YEARS CITY AUDITOR, ONLY ELECTED 'DEM' IN CITY HALL

By KEN WOODMAN
(News-Journal Executive Editor)

Talk to Paul L. Kelley for five minutes and he impresses you as a jovial chap who is interested in all kinds of sports with a possible humorous accent on golf. Talk to him for an hour and you find a man who is deeply interested in city finances.

Perhaps that is the reason Kelley has been Mansfield's city auditor for 23 years—longest record for holding an elective office in the history of Mansfield or Richland county.

That might explain, too, why Kelley is the only elected Democrat in city hall at present. (Two other Democrats, Leslie Wagner, solicitor, and Earle Troll, treasurer, are part of the administration. But they happen to have offices elsewhere.)

Kelley has always been a "party man" but politics hasn't caused any serious friction between his office and other departments of the city government when the GOP was in the saddle.

As he puts it:

"This is my only job. It's a full-time job and the only one I am interested in at all times."

* * *

OF COURSE, AS A PERSONable bachelor Kelley does get around outside city hall circles. He has been a member of McVey post, American Legion, continuously for 28 years. He belongs to the 40 et 8, the Moose, Mansfield Lodge No. 35 F. and A. M. and the Grotto.

His connection with the Legion goes back to World War I when Kelley served overseas with the engineers' corps of the army.

"In France," says Kelley, "I advanced to the rank of private!"

After his discharge in 1919 Kelley returned to his job as a deputy in the county engineer's office, then known as the surveyor's office. Kelley had served a short time in this office under Boyd Wierman before the war. He continued there until 1923 when he ran for city auditor. He was elected, and has been re-elected repeatedly ever since—first at two-year and recently, when the law changed, at four-year intervals.

* * *

KELLEY FIRST TOOK OFfice in the old city building which stood at the site of the Walpark building. In 1925 he moved with the rest of the administration to the present city hall.

In the intervening years Kelley has seen the city progress financially.

"There was a time," he said, "when the city was issuing bonds for almost anything and everything. We were indulging in about the lowest form of civic financing—issuing deficiency bonds.

"But the situation improved steadily. We weathered the depression in good shape, meeting all payrolls and the added expense of relief without a single late pay-day."

Mansfield's financial standing has progressed to the point where the city was chosen last fall by the Associated Press as one of the outstanding municipalities in the state for healthy fiscal condition.

The city entered 1947 with an operating balance of $1,264,551.

* * *

KELLEY IS INCLINED TO give most of the credit for this to the fact that "Mansfield is just a good community."

But he has always been active in advising city council on financial moves. And it was on his recommendation that the city investment board placed a part of the city's surplus funds in government securities where they would bring a cash return. This move was made last year in the midst of a lively but short controversy.

Kelley is a native Mansfielder. He was born on Pleasant avenue and graduated from Mansfield Senior high school in 1913. He has lived here all his life with the exception of a short period after graduation when he worked for Goodyear in Akron and the time spent in the army. He now makes his home with his mother at 379 Springmill street.

C. OF C. PLANS SAFETY SHOW

Three union groups today promised their help in conducting the second in a series of safety shows for Mansfield's grade school children, scheduled by the Chamber of Commerce for Jan. 18 at the Park theater.

Joseph Prewitt, assistant manager of the C. of C., said more than 1,000 children are expected to attend the hour and a half show which begins at 10 a. m. The program will include three or four movie reels stressing home and traffic safety; one or two comedy reels, and music by Kenny Hoffman's orchestra.

The show will be the second in a series of four sponsored by the Safety Council of the Chamber of Commerce. The first show was held Sep. 21 when more than 1,000 children attended. Cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce in the presentation of the shows is the Red Cross.

Prewitt said the theater space will be donated, along with the services of members of the following unions: Local 159, American Federation of Musicians; Local 576, Mansfield Projectionists' union; and Local 319, Mansfield Stage Hands' union.

Mine Fight Outcome Important To Nation's Future, Club Told

The struggle between John L. Lewis, representing the United Mine Workers and the government is a struggle to determine whether the American people shall continue to live under a republic, O. P. Wiechers, of the Red Jacket Coal Sales company, told Mansfield Rotarians yesterday.

Wiechers spoke at a luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. His topic was "Coal's Public Relations Problems."

"The fact that the miners are back to work doesn't mean that we can now breath a sigh of relief and let down," Wiechers warned. "We only have a four-month reprieve; congress has the job of protecting the nation against the recurrence of situations such as we had during the recent coal strike.

"In an effort to convert a critical public to an understanding public, the Bituminous Coal institute has been established. Its primary purpose is to get the facts before the public about production—how coal is mined, sold and serviced, and the conditions under which coal is produced."

Comparing wages in coal with other industries, Wiecher said the average common labor wage in the coal industry is "$1.49 per hour as compared with hourly wage rates of $1.31 in the automobile industry and $1.30 in steel. The lowest paid worker in our field," he said, "gets $66.87 for a six-day week."

Working conditions in the mines have greatly improved, Wiechers claimed. "Ninety per cent of bituminous coal is mechanically mined and 50 per cent is mechanically loaded. Only about five per cent of our coal is dug with pick and shovel.

"The rate of mine fatalities has dropped 90 per cent from the time first records were set up in 1874," Wiechers said. "Figures for October, 1946, showed that the fatality rate was one and one-third per million tons of coal mined, or an average of 15 fatalities a week."

Pointing to mine operators' profits, Wiechers said that "for a generation prior to the war the mines operated at a loss due to "cut-throat competition." During the greatest profit year, 1944, a gross profit of $66,000,000 was earned on 620,000,000 tons of coal, an average of 11 cents per ton. General Motors is alleged to have made seven times as much profit in the same year."

Wiecher said: "the bituminous coal industry asks no sympathy, only understanding. For what helps the coal industry eventually helps the whole national economy."

A film "The Magic of Coal," was shown at the conclusion of the talk. Wesley W. Purdy was program chairman.

War Vet, 22, Opens Grill

Harry's Grill, a completely modern restaurant, was opened today at 120-122 North Main street by Harold Coen, 22-year-old ex-paratrooper. The Grill occupies the site of the former Big 3 restaurant.

Coen's 39 months' service as a paratrooper at Ft. Benning, Ga., was sandwiched between two years as assistant manager of Stone's Grill in Marion.

Equipped with a number of items still on the shortage list, Harry's Grill includes a complete stainless steel kitchen service unit, a 40-foot refinished bar; a 20-foot lunch counter with more to be added later, 15 booths and five tables.

The Grill will be open for business from 6 a. m., to 1 a. m. daily. Table and counter space will permit the serving of 110 persons at one time.

For the present only short orders will be served. Service will be expanded to include full meals, probably in about two weeks, Coen said.

LOSES WILL—

People sometimes lose their gloves, their umbrellas, their bicycles and even their autos but a will was lost yesterday in Mansfield, and unless the legal document is found a delaying and complicated court process will result, reports Atty. James V. Will. Charles Gandert, 30 Granite street, lost the will of his mother, Kathrine Gandert, who died Jan. 2. A printed white paper labelled "Last Will and Testament," the will was believed lost somewhere on South Main street between Granite street and Central park.

PERSISTENT BATHER—

Police Lt. R. R. Hout and Patrolman Robert L. Pittenger were called out during the wee hours today to "evict" a man from a bath tub. He entered a North Main street home at which he once roomed, plumped himself in the tub and refused to leave, officers said. The policemen finally "talked" him out of the place and sent him on his way.

THEY GAVE, ANYWAY—

The Ladies' Aid society of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church didn't have a treasury, but the members wanted to give to the Friendly House building fund campaign anyway. So they took up a collection among the members and turned in a $24 donation.

The navy, marines and coast guard do not have this program in effect, he said.

AVC Donates To F. H. Fund

A donation to Mansfield's Friendly House was voted at last night's meeting of the Mansfield chapter, American Veterans Committee. In a letter to Russell Gimbel, Friendly House director, AVC praised the project as one "where there is no distinction between race or color."

It was announced that arrangements had been made with the Southern hotel to be headquarters for the AVC state council meeting during the first week in February.

Charles Swain outlined the proposed 1947 AVC program which he obtained during a recent visit to the national headquarters in New York City.

Plans were discussed for an AVC dance to be held in the near future.

STRONG BUYING DEMAND PUSHES LEVELS UPWARD

Ag-Department Sees Chance For Slower Rise on Food, Feed and Clothing.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The government today forecast a general rise in prices in the next few months although food and clothing prices may "level off somewhat."

The agriculture department warned that the strong demand for most commodities "probably will result in a continued rise in the general price level during the next three or four months." It added:

"Prices of food, feed, and possibly clothing, may level off somewhat if farm product prices decline. However, prices of other items, particularly durable goods, are expected to continue upward."

In its first 1947 report on the demand and price situation, the department predicted that prices of farm products in the first three months of the year will average slightly below the level of last November.

Reaching Consumers.

Commenting on the general price level, the department pointed out that consumers have yet to feel the full effects of recent increases in the prices of raw industrial products.

Most of the rise in the general price level was attributed to higher prices for building materials, fats and oils, metals and metal products.

The department also reported that food prices continued to rise in November while prices received by farmers declined because of the slump in the prices of cotton, corn and poultry products.

In its discussion of food prices, the department forecast continued high pork prices and an increase in lamb prices in the early spring. It said that hog prices probably would remain high through the summer.

Beef Drop Seen.

Prices of beef are expected to drop by summer, however, as the slaughter of fed cattle increases seasonally.

Although the total meat production in the first six months of 1947 may equal the output for the same period of last year, pork and lamb supplies will be smaller because of reduced slaughter.

The department's report also predicted a decline in the unit prices of milk and dairy products in 1947 because of a weakening in demand for these products.

JUDGE BELL, 74, DIES IN LONDON

Judge James F. Bell, 74, father of Mrs. Charles Farry, 122 Western avenue, and Miss Virginia Bell, a former Mansfielder, died early today at his home in London.

On the Madison county common pleas bench for the past 13 years, Judge Bell was well known in Mansfield. He had been ill since November.

Judge Bell had served as mayor of London in 1908-1909 and as Madison county prosecutor from 1911 to 1913. He was president of the London Rotary club. Last July he was awarded the 50-year-pin of the Odd Fellows Lodge.

Besides his two daughters, Judge Bell is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rowena Moore Bell; two sons, James Bell jr., and William Bell, both of London; a brother, Lee A. Bell of Groveport; and five grandchildren. Miss Bell, who formerly resided with Mrs. Farry, now resides in Cincinnati.

Funeral arrangements are being completed, at the G. G. Schlechty funeral home in London.

HEALTH SEAL FUND CLIMBS TO $10,500

Richland county's Tuberculosis association will win a $1,000 bonus if its $12,000 Christmas seal sale goal is reached by next Wednesday, Mrs. Margaret Adams, association executive secretary, said today.

The goal is still some $1,500 short with about $10,500 subscribed, she said.

She urged persons who still have not paid for seals to send money to the association office in the Walpark building.

Heasley Succeeds Mrs. Bacon As Head of Community Players

Announcement of the appointment of Earl L. Heasley, Mansfield Senior high dramatic coach, to succeed Mrs. E. K. Bacon as director of the Community Players was made last night at a reorganization meeting of the group at Mrs. Bacon's home, 71 Blymyer avenue.

Heasley said that a play, to be given by the group this spring, will be announced later. He added that the players will resume their pre-war schedule of three plays per season, beginning next fall.

Mrs. Bacon expressed her desire to retire last year, but continued in the director's capacity when it was impossible to secure another head. She has directed the players for the past 14 years. She will remain on the board of directors.

Eight new members of the board, headed by Dr. Philmour Bein, who will serve in a temporary capacity until June, are: Mrs. O. J. Marcus, Mrs. Edward P. Monahan, Miss Marguerite Miller, Ray Nixon, Philip Greene, Richard Armen, Walter Perl, and Sterling Culp.

Former members of the board who will continue to serve are Lawrence Todd, Ferd Loykovich, Heasley, Dr. Bein, Herbert H. Schettler, Margaret Kirtley, Mrs. Bacon, Barbara Hartman, Ruhland Isaly and Ernest J. Wesson.

TORRID ASHLAND CLUB TRIPS TYGERS, 49-43

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

SEVERAL QUERIES have reached this desk on just who can attend the football banquet honoring Mansfield Senior and Madison high school football teams on Jan. 13 at the Coliseum. . . . There are actually only three requirements. . . . No. 1—Desire to honor the fine gridiron teams of the two high schools. . . . No. 2—Craving to hear Bo McMillin, greatest football raconteur in the business. . . . No. 3—A ticket. . . . There are still ducats available at Sutter's, both high schools, Tawse pharmacy, City News, News-Journal and Brown's drug store. . . . The pasteboards go for only $2 and there'll be plenty of food and a swell time for all at the 11th N-J grid fete.

Mansfield's Tyger hoopsters have dropped four games this season and three of the losses have occurred when the opposition waxed unbelievably hot in the final period. . . . Last night Ashland pounded home 19 points in the final eight minutes. . . . Previously Bellevue had scored 21 in the final stanza to win, 53 to 47, while Bexley connected for 22 to chalk up a 62 to 50 decision. . . . Fourth loss was to Lima Central in overtime, 45 to 43.

One of the toughest high school athletic circuits in the state, the Greater Ohio league, was strengthened recently by the reentry of Portsmouth. . . . The Trojans withdrew a year ago because the loop didn't play a football schedule. . . . Now the members plan to recognize a grid champion, however, with the proviso that each school must play three family games.

Members of that league are Middletown, Hamilton, Springfield, Monroe, Lima South and Lima Central. . . . Really a group of names to respect. . . . The league produced the 1945-46 Class A basketball champion, Middletown, and one of the outstanding undefeated 1946 football teams, Lima Central.

Bill Veeck has been selected by the National Laugh Week Foundation as "the man who contributed most to laughs in sports in 1946." Bill says he hopes that doesn't refer to the Indians' performances on the field. . . . Owner Art McBride of the Cleveland Browns today referred to Coach and General Manager Paul Brown a proposal from Jim Crowley that the Chicago Rockets meet the Browns in a pre-season exhibition game in Akron's Rubber bowl next autumn.

A'S CONNECT FOR 19 POINTS IN LAST HEAT

Bengals Lead During First Three Periods

By FRED THARP
(N-J Sports Editor)

Ashland literally burned up the nets in the fourth quarter last night at Senior high gym to defeat the Mansfield Tygers, 49 to 43.

The A's swished 19 points through the hoop in the last heat while Mansfield settled for 11. It was Ashland's third straight victory over the Bengals and its sixth victory in seven contests this season.

All of the traditional fight that characterizes the ancient rivalry was apparent as both teams battled fiercely right to the final gun. Neither team strained the bonds of sportsmanship but both were overzealous in their defensive work and hard-working officials Eddie Finnegan and Lars Wagner assessed 39 fouls.

And it was accuracy from the free throw line that enabled Ashland to win its 33rd decision in the 69th renewal of the series. Ashland connected 15 times in 25 free throw tries while the Tygers could make only seven of 22. Mansfield had made 52 per cent of its gratis tosses prior to last night's tilt.

Mansfield, with burly Nick Gagich setting the pace, outshot the visitors from the court, 18 to 17. Gagich dumped in six fielders and three free throws for individual scoring honors. His 15-point total shaded Ashland's Dave Burns by one point.

Ollie Cline turned in a swell defensive job on Dick Messner, the A's one-man point gang. He connected only three times from the court but added four free throws. Messner had averaged 15.7 points a game.

Mansfield was a much improved ball club during the first three quarters and never trailed until Ashland went ahead in the first minute of the final canto, 33 to 32. Early in the fourth quarter Ashland pieced together 15 points while Mansfield could dent the scoring column only on a one-hander by Gagich.

The Tygers poured on the coal at the start of the contest and ran up a 9 to 2 lead before Bob Harpster counted Ashland's first basket on a fast break after six minutes. Mansfield led at the quarter 13 to 6 and was in front at the half-time intermission, 23 to 17.

Ashland kept pecking away at the Tyger advantage in the third quarter and trailed only 32 to 29 when the final stanza opened. A pivot connection by Messner and a rebounder by Don Drebus put the A's ahead for keeps in the fourth.

Harpster and Dick Cooper of Ashland and Gagich and Tommy Bloor of Mansfield were ejected from the game because of rules infractions. Each had five personals called against him.

Baptists Sink St. Luke's For Fourth in Row

Park Avenue Baptist clung to its undefeated record last night sinking St. Luke's, 31 to 28, in the YMCA Senior Church league.

St. Luke's had won two straight league victories. The Baptists have won four contests, and led at the periods, 6 to 3, 17 to 8 and 23 to 20 last night. Barr of St. Luke's had 11 points.

Bob Meeker paced the St. Matthew's quintet to a 30 to 23 win over First Presbyterian. Meeker tallied 14 points.

Ontario Community won a forfeit over the Mayflower Congregationalists.

Sports 'FBI' Proposal Goes Before NCAA

NEW YORK—A recommendation that all sports, amateur and professional, cooperate in the formation of an "FBI" agency to police athletics in an effort to curb gambling went before the National Collegiate Athletic association today.

Another proposal suggested the NCAA seek more stringent state and federal statutes on gambling and specifically recommended that congress be asked to enact a law making attempted bribery of a player a federal offense.

The postwar betting mania brought warnings from two speakers at yesterday's sessions.

Dr. J. L. Morrill, president of the University of Minnesota, told the delegates to the 21st annual convention that "intercollegiate football is ripe for the kill." Later, Earl Yeomans of Temple university tackled the subject by advocating the "FBI" setup to which he gave the label "clean sports foundation."

Under Yeomans' plan, the foundation would include all sports governing bodies in the country with the president of the United States or J. Edgar Hoover as honorary president. The anti-gambling proposals, offered at the "big college" forum, go before the general NCAA convention today.

The foundation would consist of the NCAA, the Amateur Athletic Union, organized baseball, the professional leagues in football, hockey and basketball, the Boy Scouts and the American Sports Institute, according to the Yeomans' proposal.

McMillin, Butts Tops In Knife and Fork Loop

By OSCAR FRALEY, UP Sports Writer.

NEW YORK—(UP)—The rubber chicken circuit is at its indigestible height today and two of the smartest napkin e knucklers on the knife and fork loop are Wally Butts and "Pore Ole Uncle Bo" McMillin.

They don't eat. They talk.

Butts is a round, solemn-faced little man who tutors muscular young men in the fine arts of gridiron mayhem at the University of Georgia. His team was the only major undefeated and untied club in the country this fall which, for a football coach, is money in the bank.

Wally had one of the best halfbacks of this or any other year in a lad named Charley Trippi and the chunky one is duly grateful.

"As a matter of fact, coaching will be tougher next year than ever," Butts bemoaned, referring no doubt to the loss of said halfback, and then adding facetiously: "Yes, I did a good job coaching. After teaching Trippi to play left halfback I'm practically exhausted."

Wally then proceeds telling about being an assistant coach for the College All-Stars.

"I'm one of the friendliest fellows on the staff," the little guy deadpans, "because those mid-western kids are all big and tough looking. So when I see one sitting in the shade of a tree I simply tell Head Coach McMillin.

"Bo walks over and says to the kid: 'Don't you have any interest in this game?'

"'No, not a helluva lot,' was the frank, unconcerned answer."

McMillin, the gray-haired Indiana coach, gained his first football fame as one of the little band of Praying Colonels from Centre who upset mighty Harvard. It is a standing joke among his fellow coaches that every time Bo wins a big game his contract is lengthened.

One of the drawling Bo's favorites concerns the Indiana rooter who moved to South Bend and, in no time at all, was a dyed-in-the-wool Notre Dame fan. Then Indiana went to South Bend for a game and the local rooters were shocked to hear their local fan cheering for Indiana.

"Aren't you a Catholic?" a Notre Dame man shouted at the local fan.

"Yeah," came the reply, "but that ain't mass going on out there."

And Bo also gets a howl with his story about the day Indiana was trying to perfect a spinner play and nothing seemed to go right. There was a Negro player on the squad and his tongue was hanging out with the intensity of the workout. Finally, the exasperated Bo gathered his squad around him and roared:

"We'll practice this play until you're all black in the face if it's necessary."

Up piped the Negro and asked: "Can Ah go now, Mr. Bo?"

Boxers Finish Heavy Drills

Mansfield boxers, who will compete in tomorrow's pro show at the Armory, ended heavy training yesterday and were scheduled for light work today.

Five Mansfield ringsmiths—Joe Brown, Dick Alexander, Gale Frye, Chuck Wiggins and Roger Rucker—are scheduled to compete on the Rex Reese-Sam Miller promoted show.

Brown and Alexander have compiled fine winning records in the Mansfield ring while Frye copped his only start here two months ago. It will be the first pro battles for Wiggins and Rucker.

Brown collides with clever Eddie Elton, Akron middleweight, in the ten-round main event while Alexander will be after his eighth straight ring victory in the six-round semi-windup. He goes against Frankie Fare, who has won nine of 14 pro fights.

Frye, a lightweight, meets Wally Barkley, Massillon, in another six-rounder. Wiggins meets Johnny Streaters, Canton heavyweight, and Rucker tangles with Jimmy Davis, Canton light-heavy, in four rounders.

Demchuk Lays Title on Line

Johnny Demchuk, former Canadian soldier, lays his [illegible] weight wrestling championship on the line in the Armory here tonight for the first time in several months.

Demchuck served in the Canadian artillery in World War II and has compiled an imposing record as champion of his division. Demchuk goes against scientific Ken Mayne, Texas grappler, in the championship match.

Mayne has looked good in recent mat exhibitions in the Mansfield ring. They will battle best two-of-three falls with a 90 minute time limit.

The preliminary event at 8:30 pits John Cretoria, 210-pound ruffian, against Jack Vansky. The prelim is also a two-[illegible] falls but has a 60-minute limit.

Rams Win 5th In Row

ERNSBERGER GETS 17 IN 44 TO 27 WIN

Mansfield Madison won its fifth consecutive cage game last night, turning back Lucas 44 to 27.

The visiting cagers suffered the loss of Don Stake, leading scorer in the Richland county league. Stake did not play due to a blood infection.

Dick Ernsberger rung up 17 points to take individual offensive honors. The Madison guard scored eight long shots from the side of the court. All were one-handed push shots. He also sank one charity toss.

It was one of the rougher contests of the year, three players being evicted via the personal foul route. Madison lost Center Bob Wilson and Guard Dick Poth, while Gene Orewiler was benched for the Lucas five.

Madison took a first quarter, 11-6, lead and was never threatened during the contest. At halftime the Rams had a 22-9 advantage. Going into the last period, Coach Jeff DeHaven's quint was ahead 39-17.

Late in the last stanza DeHaven sent his regulars to the showers and Wilson fouled out of the game with only 20 seconds remaining. Herb Eldridge, who scored 11 points, had to return to the court.

Midway in the third frame, Ernsberger completed four successive long shots from the side of the court. Joe Banner sank six consecutive foul shots for Lucas, before he missed.

Coach Bill Kopcial's Madison reserve team dropped its third game in six contests to Lucas reserves, 15 to 10.

Blustering Babe Ruth Still In There Pitching

By OSCAR FRALEY, United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK—The Babe is in there pitching again today so the game which started a half century ago in the dock district of Baltimore probably will go into extra innings.

Somehow it is impossible to believe that George Herman Ruth would go to the showers for the last time with such swift meekness. It just isn't the character of the burly man with the unbelievably bulbous nose and the mincing gait.

Everything he ever did was accompanied by noise and accomplished with gusto. He escaped being a shirtmaker when plucked from an industrial school because of his perfect pitching, but had he fulfilled such a destiny they would have been the loudest shirts in the world.

Baseball saved him from that, but it couldn't change him. For here was a swashbuckling celebrator of the John L. Sullivan school, a blustering, prankish "bad boy" whose lovable, unpredictable acts ruined his managerial chances and made such modern bad men as Leo Durocher look like Sunday school teachers.

But the Babe had as many facets as the Hope diamond. He could be reckless, like the night he and Bob Muesel held tiny Miller Huggins suspended over the observation car railing of a speeding express train. That was a terrible moment.

He could be human, too, this man who loved hot dogs to the point of acute gastronomical distress and during one hot spell in St. Louis wore 22 $30 silk shirts in three days.

Sure, he had a fancy time for a while, the big guy who started in as a great pitcher and wound up as baseball's all-time home run hitter. Parties, nine motor cars at a time, rich food and lots of it and high life on a salary larger than that of the president of the United States.

Yet they took most of that out of him in 1925—and by using a kid as a weapon.

The Babe wasn't too penitent until the late Jimmy Walker said to him:

"Babe, a kid just stopped me on the street and asked me for a dime. He wanted to make up a quarter to buy a Babe Ruth cap. Don't you think you owe something to a kid like that—and others like him?"

Tears flooded those big round eyes. That knocked the big guy further than he ever had hit one of his famous homers.

No, all in all, the Babe wasn't a bad guy. So now, when he's pitching his most crucial game, it would be kind of fine if he could hit one more home run—just for himself.

IN THEIR ANNUAL competition staged at the Palm Beach hotel, Florida lifeguards choose Alice Lane of East Rockaway, L. I., as the girl they'd most willingly go overboard for. (International)

Flight Pupil Seeks $2,600

A. Clayton Tschantz, flight instructor for the Harrington Air Service, Inc., today was named defendant in a suit for $2,600 damages as the result of a plane crash at the Mansfield airport last Oct. 15.

Filed on behalf of Hansel H. Butler, of Waverly, the petition claims Tschantz was negligent in landing an Ercoupe plane, owned by Butler, while Tschantz and Butler were attempting a similated forced landing.

Butler said Tschantz was testing him for "aeronautic skills" when he instructed him to "cut the motor" and select a field for a simulated forced landing But at an altitude of 100 feet Tschantz took control of the plane and, with "improper handling," caused the plane to crash, Butler contends

Attys W A Calhoun and W T. Reed filed the action for Butler in Richland county common pleas court

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicine for coughs It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicine you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

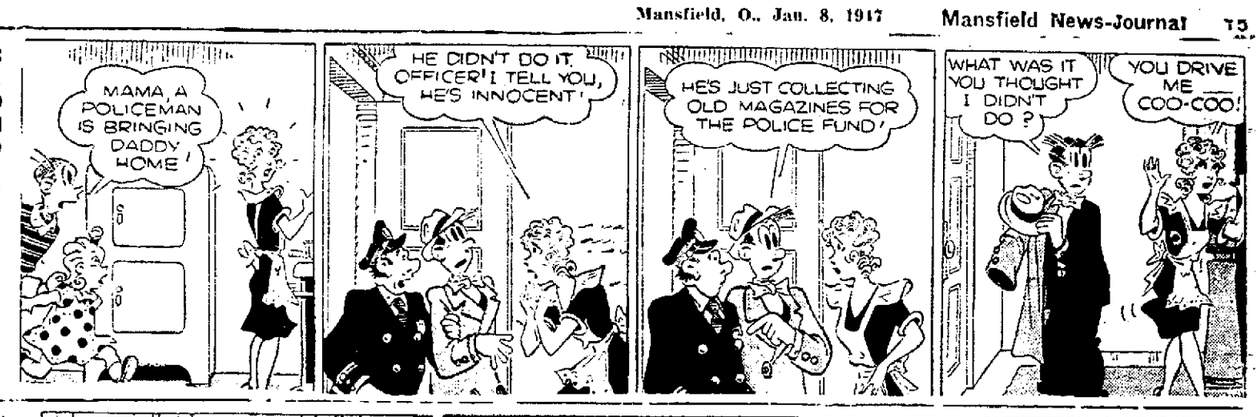
SUPERMAN

HOW CAN PERMITTING YOU TO PAINT MY PORTRAIT HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH THE HAPPINESS OF HUNDREDS OF HELPLESS CHILDREN?
I SHALL EXPLAIN!
I HAVE BEEN COMMISSIONED BY THE "OSKEWA COUNTY HALL OF FAME" TO PAINT YOUR LIKENESS. IT WILL BE EXHIBITED TOGETHER WITH MY PAINTINGS OF OTHER FAMOUS INDIVIDUALS—AND THE PUBLIC WILL BE CHARGED ADMISSION. ALL PROCEEDS WILL GO TO THE OSKEWA ORPHANAGE.
SURELY A MAN OF YOUR ALTRUISTIC LEANINGS WILL AGREE TO POSE FOR A PORTRAIT—FOR THE SAKE OF THOSE NEEDY YOUNGSTERS.
HOW CAN I REFUSS, WHEN YOU PUT IT LIKE THAT?
YOU HAVE MY CARD. I WILL EXPECT YOU AT MY STUDIO TOMORROW AT 3:00 P.M., FOR THE FIRST OF SEVERAL DAILY TWO-HOUR SESSIONS.
I'LL BE THERE.
SUPERMAN'S PORTRAIT—IN A HALL OF FAME!!

BLONDIE



MAMA, A POLICEMAN IS BRINGING DADDY HOME!
HE DIDN'T DO IT, OFFICER! I TELL YOU, HE'S INNOCENT!
HE'S JUST COLLECTING OLD MAGAZINES FOR THE POLICE FUND!
WHAT WAS IT YOU THOUGHT I DIDN'T DO?
YOU DRIVE ME COO-COO!

TERRY & PIRATES

I SEE TREK'S BOYS MADE GOOD. THEY'VE PROMOTED SOME TRANSPORTATION.
DON'T TELL ME ALL THIS WAS LEADING UP TO LOCATION SHOTS FOR A HORSE OPERA.
IF IT IS...HERE COMES THE TOP CATTLE RUSTLER!
I'LL BE BRIEF! SINCE MY ASSOCIATE'S STUPID PERFORMANCE MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE TO MISLEAD YOU FURTHER, I MUST RESORT TO OTHER METHODS.
MY PARTY WILL LEAVE DIRECTLY... YOU WILL REMAIN HERE WITH THE AIRCRAFT UNTIL WE RETURN!
IT'S JUST AN IDLE THOUGHT, BUT SUPPOSE WE WERE TO FLY OUT OF HERE AND LEAVE YOU TO COOK IN WHATEVER BREW YOU STIR UP.
THAT IDEA CROSSED MY MIND, OF COURSE... THAT'S WHY I TOOK THE PRECAUTION OF REMOVING A SMALL BUT NECESSARY PART FROM EACH OF YOUR ENGINES.

ORPHAN ANNIE

OF COURSE IF YOU DON'T FEEL ABLE TO PAY WHAT MY STUFF IS WORTH—LOOK HERE, YOUNG MAN!
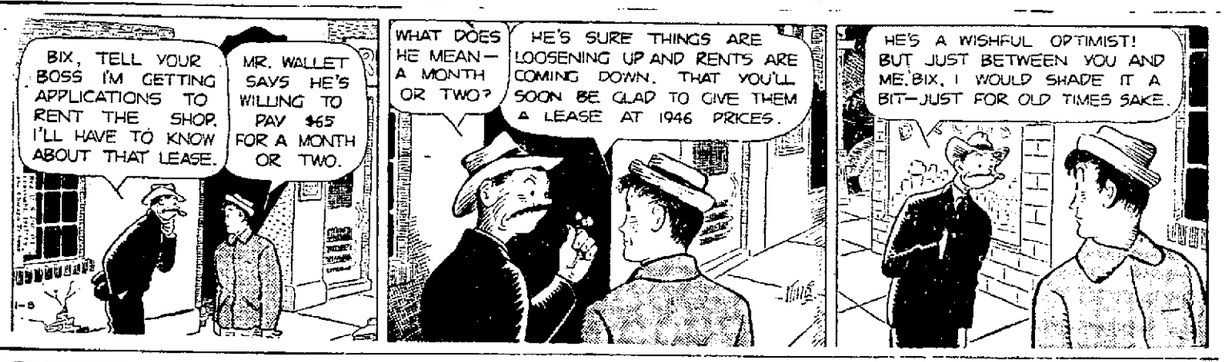
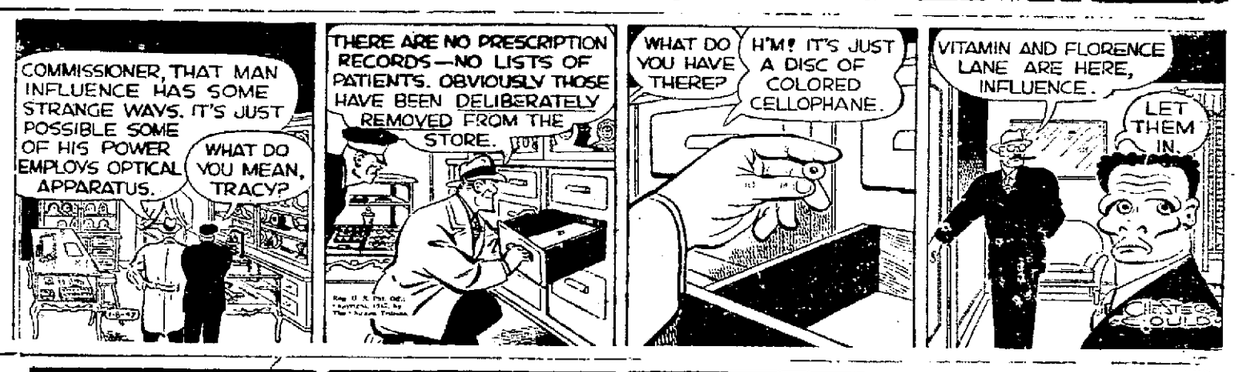
1-8-47
I LIKE SELF-CONFIDENCE—NERVE! BUT AFTER ALL—YOU ARE THE MOST COLOSSAL.....
YOU SAID IT—BEST IN THE BUSINESS, MR. TINWHISTLE-
NO! THIS STUFF IS A DIME A DOZEN! THE PAPERS ARE FULL OF THIS TRIPE! MY SYNDICATE IS FULL OF THIS TRASH!
OH, WELL IN THAT CASE—
HAROLD GRAY

GASOLINE ALLEY



BIX, TELL YOUR BOSS I'M GETTING APPLICATIONS TO RENT THE SHOP. I'LL HAVE TO KNOW ABOUT THAT LEASE.
MR. WALLET SAYS HE'S WILLING TO PAY $65 FOR A MONTH OR TWO.
WHAT DOES HE MEAN—A MONTH OR TWO?
HE'S SURE THINGS ARE LOOSENING UP AND RENTS ARE COMING DOWN. THAT YOU'LL SOON BE GLAD TO GIVE THEM A LEASE AT 1946 PRICES.
HE'S A WISHFUL OPTIMIST! BUT JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME, BIX, I WOULD SHADE IT A BIT—JUST FOR OLD TIMES SAKE.

DICK TRACY



COMMISSIONER, THAT MAN INFLUENCE HAS SOME STRANGE WAYS. IT'S JUST POSSIBLE SOME OF HIS POWER EMPLOYS OPTICAL APPARATUS.
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, TRACY?
THERE ARE NO PRESCRIPTION RECORDS—NO LISTS OF PATIENTS. OBVIOUSLY THOSE HAVE BEEN DELIBERATELY REMOVED FROM THE STORE.
WHAT DO YOU HAVE THERE?
H'M! IT'S JUST A DISC OF COLORED CELLOPHANE.
VITAMIN AND FLORENCE LANE ARE HERE, INFLUENCE.
LET THEM IN.

REDDY IS MADE HUNGRIER

Reddy Fox is an op-ti-mist. Isn't that a lovely word for boys and girls to roll over their tongues? Just try it—op-ti-mist. Then be one now and always, for it is a lovely sort of person to be. It is one who always expects the best is going to happen; who never looks at a black cloud without seeing right through it to where the sun is shining; who is sure that the worse things may get the sooner they will get better. Reddy Fox is that kind of a person.

He always starts out hunting with confidence. He doesn't allow disappointments to get him low in spirits. He makes the most of what he has and hopes for better things. If it is stormy today he is sure the sun will shine tomorrow. If yesterday he went hungry why that was yesterday; today is another day. A dinner worth hunting for is worthing waiting for. "What impatience loses patience gains" says Reddy, which is proof that he has learned the secret of cheerful living.

But there are times when even an op-ti-mist feels as if somehow things couldn't be worse, and he cannot see through the dark cloud to the silver lining. Then for just a little while, never for long, he forgets that he is an op-ti-mist. That is how it was with Reddy just now.

It was so long since he had a full meal that it was difficult to remember when he had not been hungry. You see these were hard times. He had known many hard times but he was sure that they never had been as hard as these. This was because troubles of today always seem worse than troubles of yesterday. It is the difference between is and was.

Snow lay deep over the Green Forest and the Green Meadows and it was covered with an icy crust strong enough for Reddy to run about on it with no danger of breaking through. Hunting had been bad enough when the snow was so soft he couldn't run in it, but had to wade. Wading is slow work and you cannot catch others who do not have to wade. Now he could run on the crust, but he was little better off than before. You see the Mice on whom he depended for food were safe under the crust. And so Reddy was hungry, so hungry that he could think of nothing else while he was awake, which was most of the time, and dream of nothing else when he was asleep. It seemed to him as if inside he was all stomach and that was empty. That is how hungry he was. He was sure he couldn't possibly feel hungrier, but he was soon to find out that he could.

He had been hunting in the Green Forest. Now he was following down the course of Laughing Brook. It was frozen over except for a couple of places where the water ran too swiftly to freeze. There the water looks black and cold. Through a little swamp Reddy trotted and so out to the Smiling Pool. It didn't smile now. It didn't even look like a pool. When Jack Frost had first arrived he had covered most of it with ice and snow had covered this. Only up near where Laughing Brook entered it had Jack Frost failed to cover it with ice. A place there had remained open long after his arrival. It was only during the bitter cold weather since the last snowstorm that this place had frozen over. Now it lay just before Reddy, a smooth sheet of clear ice that looked black against its white surrounding.

The ice was thick enough for Reddy to walk on it in safety. He started to cross it. It was clear as a sheet of glass. Looking down he could see through it to almost the bottom of the Smiling Pool. He saw a fish swmiming slowly. It swam under his very nose. So clear was the ice that it seemed as if all he need do would be to open his mouth and snap up that fish. Yes, sir, that is how it seemed.

Suddenly the fish darted away and another swimmer came into view, a stout, brown swimmer, an old acquaintance. It was Johnny Muskrat. He swam right under Reddy Fox and between them was little more than the sheet of clear ice. There was a wonderful dinner not three inches from his black nose when he put it down to the ice, and it would do him no more good than if miles away.

Jerry disappeared under the snow-covered ice on his way to his house and Reddy went on, hungrier than ever. Just then he didn't feel like an op-ti-mist.

25 FIELD MEN ATTEND MEETING OF LUMBERMENS

Opening a meeting of 25 of the field men from all over the U. S. in the home office of the company, Charles H. Keating, president and manager of The Lumbermens Mutual Insuranee company, reported that the company had enjoyed a profitable year in 1946 and that the prospects for 1947 were very bright indeed.

Keating stated: "Last year, Lumbermens wrote the largest volume of premiums in its history and the same factors which made possible this splendid experience in 1946 are present for 1947."

Charles E. Nail, vice president and assistant manager of Lumbermens, stressed the need for greater co-operation between property owners and insurance companies in the prevention of unnecessary losses.

Loss of 600 Million.

Nail said "America is going through one of the most difficult periods in her history from the standpoint of fire losses and insurance companies, including our own, with their trained fire prevention engineers and inspectors, must do something about it. Fire losses for 1946 will approach $600,000,000

"While the fire losses of the country as a whole are reaching these new records," Nail added, "the experience of our policyholders, as shown by losses paid by The Lumbermens in 1946, is far better than the average of all the property owners of the country. Therefore, 'Prevention of Loss' will be our outstanding contribution to our policyholders and to our country throughout 1947."

E. C. Frampton, vice president and agency supervisor for the company, presided over the first day's conference, discussing premium volume, loss ratios, trends in insurance buying and outlining a sales program for the year of 1947. Scott F. Coffin, vice president and chief underwriter of the Lumbermens, addressed the conference on the selection of business, the handling of large lines, and causes of loss.

Fine Statement.

Dale G. Roth, secretary of the company, talked on the financial condition of Lumbermens, stating that "although we have not been able to compile all of our figures for 1946 we'll have a fine looking financial statement to show the public.

Fred Greenwood underwriter for Lumbermens, spoke on the technical end of underwriting fire business; Howard D Smith spoke on "Automobile and Inland Marine Insurance Prospects"

Russell Davis, manager of the Lumber Insurance Department, presided over the second day of the conference Said Davis: "When you read of hundreds of thousands of board feet of lumber going up in flames, don't think that it's just another lumber yard fire—think rather hundreds more homeless people are going to have to wait just that much longer before they can have a roof of their own over their heads"

William Schultz, chief engineer of the company, stressed the value of frequent inspections as a method of reducing fire losses, and G. S. Nichols spoke on "Aviation Insurance" dealing with its possibilities and its hazards.

The meeting will end Friday.

ONE OUT OF 10 CARS DAMAGED

BUCYRUS—One out of every ten automobiles in Bucyrus was damaged in traffic accidents last year, a report issued by Safety Patrolman Charles E. Ghist disclosed today.

The police department investigated 240 accidents during 1946, with two persons killed and 57 injured. In 1945, only 146 accidents were reported, with two dead and 22 injured.

Ghist said that of the 1946 total, 128 accidents occurred at intersections, and 35 involved collisions between trucks and passenger cars.

The department's traffic safety campaign resulted in 82 arrests for driving while under the influence of alcohol, speeding and reckless operation. More than 200 tickets were issued for speeding, failure to observe stop signs and traffic lights.

September was the most dangerous month of the year, the report showed, with 31 accidents.

DAVIDSON TO TALK IN BUCYRUS TODAY

BUCYRUS—Brig. Charles Davidson returned missionary from Japan who is now awaiting orders to return to Japan to reopen Salvation Army work there, will speak at a public meeting at 8 p. m. today in the Citadel.

Brig. Davidson will be accompanied here by Major Harold Zeally, divisional commander for this area, and Major George Baggs, young people's secretary of southwest Ohio and northeast Kentucky.

The guests will attend an advisory board dinner prior to the program. Music will be furnished by a special band organized from corps at Marion, Tiffin, Findlay, Lima, Van Wert and Bucyrus.

MRS. ANNETTE COULTER BROMFIELD

Mrs. Bromfield Dies At Author-Son's Farm

Mrs. Annette Coulter Bromfield, widow of Charles Bromfield, died at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, at the home of her author-son, Louis Bromfield, Malabar Farm, after a brief illness. She had been in failing health for the past several years.

Mrs. Bromfield was born in Springfield township, April 28, 1863. Her parents were Robert and Addie Barr Coulter, pioneer residents of Richland county.

Following her marriage to the late Charles Bromfield, former Richland county treasurer, the family lived in Mansfield for many years and it was here that their three children were born—two sons, Louis and Charles, and a daughter, Marie, who married Stanley Mauger and whose death occurred 10 years ago. Charles is now a resident of New York city.

With the exception of 25 years, during which she lived in New York City, Mrs. Bromfield spent her entire life in this community. She returned three years ago to make her home with her son, Louis and family at Malabar.

* * *

Church Worker.

She was a member of the First Congregational church and during her residence in Mansfield was active in church and literary circles. She also gained recognition as a writer and a number of her articles and short stories appeared in widely read magazines.

It was her interest in the field of literature that proved a constant inspiration during the boyhood and young manhood of her son, Louis, who credits his mother with the driving power which resulted in his outstanding success as a writer.

Surviving, in addition to two sons, are one grandson, John Mauger, of Chicago; and three granddaughters, Anne, Hope and Ellen Bromfield, of Malabar.

Memorial services will be held in Grace Episcopal church Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard officiating. Arrangements are in charge of the Finefrock funeral home and private services and burial will be held at a time to be announced later.

JURORS CALLED FOR JAN. 20 TO HEAR 32 CASES

Two Second-Degree Murder Charges To Be Studied.

Two cases of second-degree murder and three involving rape charges will top the docket of 32 alleged law violations which will face the Richland county grand jury convening Jan. 20, the county prosecutor's office reported today.

Yesterday a jury venire of nine men and six women was issued for the session. It was estimated the jury would need three days in which to clear up its docket, one of the largest in recent years.

Charged with second-degree murder are Clarence Black, 224½ North Main street, and John Owens, 257½ North Main street.

Black is accused of fatally stabbing Richard Jones, Demo club bartender, in an argument over $2.50 at the club headquarters Christmas morning. Owens is charged with slaying Alonzo B. Lindsay, 266½ North Main street, in a shooting fray in an alley off North Diamond street last Nov. 2.

Charges Listed.

Other defendants and the charges against them include:

Robert Lee Andrews, rape; Roy Briggs, rape and robbery; Charles W. Williams, assault with intent to rape; Paul Malitch, possession of burglary tools; George Malitch, carrying concealed weapons; Hillary Harris, unarmed robbery; Abe Smith, unarmed robbery; James Leslie Weyant, obtaining money under false pretenses; John DeSanto, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

James Howe, attempted breaking and entering; Robert L. Allison, carrying concealed weapons; Rocco John Restagno, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent; Ted R. Dornon, issuing checks without funds; William B. Kunkel, operating a motor

FBI ACCUSES FARM CREDIT OFFICE HEAD

Officers Find $11,230 Buried In Backyard After Kidnap Threat Story Exploded.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Harry D. Bechtel, 29, Medina county branch manager of the Farm Production Credit association, was arrested today by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the embezzling of approximately $23,000 in government funds.

Special FBI Agent E. C. Richardson said Bechtel was taken in custody at his home near Seville where $11,230 of the stolen funds were dug up in his backyard.

Richardson said Bechtel came under suspicion several weeks ago while he was managing his office in Ashland.

(H. G. Olin, secretary-treasurer of the Ashland district PCA office, informed the News-Journal that Bechtel was an association representative of the PCA in charge of the Medina office, which was under the supervision of the Ashland office.

(He said Bechtel worked for the PCA for approximately a year, and left on Dec. 28. As far as he knew, Olin said, Bechtel did not live in Ashland.)

When first questioned, Richardson said, Bechtel said that two unidentified men had come to his office and demanded $25,000 under threat of doing bodily harm to his two children.

Story Fails to Hold Up.

Richardson said the story failed to hold up.

"We went to Bechtel's home this morning," Richardson said, "and he paced off a certain distance in his backyard. We then dug down about three feet and uncovered a capped lead pipe in which the $11,230 was concealed. Bechtel admitted the money was part of what he had stolen."

The FBI agent said that Kelsey Benedict and Clarence A. Hicks, of the Farm Credit administra-

Fictional Death Notices Alarm Tiro Residents

TIRO — Fictional accounts of the death of seven Tiro high school pupils in "make-believe" accidents shocked scores of residents here when published on the school page of the weekly newspaper, the Tiro World.

Many readers accepted the stories as true, despite a notice printed at the top of the page which read:

"This issue is compiled entirely of work done as regular classroom assignments. No Junior or Senior has actually met with death."

The page was devoted to essays and poems, since the school was closed for the holiday vacation. All the essays were written as obituaries of various students.

Some readers called the newspaper office to protest publication of the stories.

Four Bills Seek Bonus for Vets

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —A new drive for a veterans bonus was underway in congress today.

Four bonus bills already were in the house hopper despite President Truman's statement that the government program for aid to veterans is complete except for minor adjustments.

'BITTER' BRITISH BRIDES SCARCE, BUT TALK LOUD

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Of the 42,000 British war brides who have arrived to join their husbands in the United States, only 29 were left stranded in New York by husbands who changed their minds, authorities said today.

The trouble with the bitter British brides, said the people who know, is that they talk too much. Loud, too. Makes you think there are thousands of them.

But it isn't so, said the brides, the husbands and the Red Cross, which takes care of the girls who need a round trip ticket for their matrimonial journey.

Those British papers who called them "brides of despair," were not completely informed, said some.

Daniel Green, administrator of social services for the Red Cross, said if there were hundreds of British war brides "stranded and living in squalor in New York, awaiting passage back to Great Britain," as charged in the London Daily Mail, that his organization certainly knew nothing about it.

"Out of 42,000 war brides," he added, "less than 50 arrived here and found that their husbands had refused to receive them. Some hundreds, who were accepted by their husbands, did decide later on that they had had enough and wanted to go back home."

Wanted-- A Barber

North Robinson Hunts Haircutter Who Won't Charge Over 50 Cents

NORTH ROBINSON—This Crawford county village of 300 persons literally has a three-month growth of hair in protest against the high cost of haircuts.

Mayor J. A. Baker said today the village is "looking for a good barber who won't charge too much."

By "too much," he said, he meant anything over 50 cents.

He disclosed that the village council, meeting Monday night to consider the problem of a "barberless" town, decided to advertise for a barber.

Council authorized the mayor to advertise in area papers, offering to furnish a shop and living quarters for a village barber—at a nominal rent of $10 a month in a village-owned building.

"We had a barber here up to three months ago, when he raised his price to 65 cents," the mayor said. "We thought he charged too much and quit patronizing him, and he left town."

Included among the newspapers to which Mayor Baker sent the "wanted, a barber" advertisement was the News-Journal in Mansfield, where the prevailing price for haircuts is $1.

COUNCIL PARES FUND REQUESTS

$125,000 Slashed From City Operating Measure For '47 By Committee.

Mansfield's 1947 cost-of-operations bill stood at $967,000 today following a $125,000 slash made in the original bill by city council's finance committee.

The bill goes to council as a whole Friday. If passed without further, major reductions it will mark the highest annual appropriation ever set up for the city's operations.

It is expected, however, that city expenses this year will go over the $1,000,000-mark. Some of the money cut from the original bill is to be replaced piecemeal during the year, Finance Committee Chairman Russell Porch said.

Porch said one reason the bill marks a $140,000 boost over last year's is that council is planning to make far fewer supplemental appropriations this year.

* * *

Wants It to Last.

Annually the appropriation bill is, in effect, boosted by additional appropriations made throughout the year. This year, Porch said, an attempt is being made to set up all the money needed at once.

Other major cuts of $16,500 and $15,000 were made in the water fund and the city building fund, respectively, the finance committee chairman said.

Some $10,400 was slashed from the parking meter fund and $8,000 from the garbage fund because the total proposed appropriations would have topped estimated income, Porch explained.

He said, however, that revised garbage collection fees may result in increased income for that department and that new parking meters, scheduled for purchase, probably would boost that department's income.

C. F. UNCKRICH, OF GALION, DIES

GALION—Clarence F. Unckrich, 61, president of the American Steel Vault company of Galion, died at his home on Park Lane at 7:30 a. m. today after an illness of three months.

Born in Sandusky in 1885, Mr. Unckrich came to Galion as a boy. He was a director of the Eagle Crusher company, vice president and director of the Galion Building and Loan company, and a director of the First National bank of Galion.

He was active in the Ohio State Association of Elks, having served as past exhalted ruler of the Galion lodge, and past district deputy grand exalted ruler. He was credited with instituting inter-city Elks' visitations.

He also was active in Masonic work as a member of Galion F. and A. M. No. 414, Masons, and Galion chapter 142, R.A.M.; Scioto Consistory of Columbus, Aladdin Temple Shriners and the temple drum and bugle corps.

He is survived by his widow, Marguerite, one daughter, Mrs. Bert Deibig, of Galion; one sister, Mrs. Carl Knoble, of Sandusky, and a brother, A. F. Unckrich of Columbus.

Friends may call at home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Army, Navy Officials Seek Unity On Merger

WASHINGTON—(INS)—High war and navy department officials today sought a compromise on the merger issue in the hope of heading off a renewed battle on Capitol Hill.

Congressional armed services committees are expected to mark time on unification bills to give the army and navy time to get together on a plan both will accept.

Despite President Truman's renewed and flat recommendation for a thorough merger, it was learned that army and navy officials are negotiating to see whether they can get together in something acceptable to the two departments and congress.

Budget Cuts Feared.

An official who disclosed the compromise move added his opinion that fear of crippling budget cuts is spurring the compromise efforts to get together wherever money can be saved.

As far as the navy is concerned, any compromise on unification certainly would stop short of putting both services under a single cabinet secretary.

On Capitol Hill Sen. Gurney (R) S.D., new chairman of the merged armed forces committee, indicated that all of President Truman's national defense recommendations will come before his committee. He said:

"I can find no place where I am in disagreement with the president's outline. I might, of course, disagree with details when they are revealed."

Meanwhile, merger foes were confident that they have seven votes in the 13-member committee.

WARM SPRINGS CO-FOUNDER DIES

Henry Pope, native of Crestline, who became a hosiery and textile manufacturer and co-founder with the late President Roosevelt of the Warm Springs (Ga.) Infantile Paralysis foundation, died yesterday at his home in Chicago at the age of 78.

No known relatives survive. Pope's parents operated a lock shop in Crestline during his youth. The Schill Manufacturing company now occupies the site. Also remembered was the Videtl Press, Crestline newspaper, which Pope's brother, William, operated.

From their West Bucyrus street home in Crestline, Pope's family moved to Bucyrus for a short time before leaving for Kankakee, Ill., where Pope founded the Paramount Textile Machinery company and the Neumode Hosiery company which operates retail stores throughout the midwest. The textile company is an outgrowth of the Paramount Knitting company.

Pope donated the site for the Warm Springs Foundation in 1927 and served as vice president and trustee until ill health forced him to resign last March.

At the time of his death, Pope was chairman of the board of Bear Brand Hosiery company, a manufacturing concern with branches in downstate Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Marshall Quits China to Take Byrnes' Post

Appointment Puts Five-Star General In Limelight as Possibility for Dem Presidential Candidacy.

(Compiled From Wire Dispatches)

The sudden resignation of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed him shook the world's foreign offices and chancellories from London to Nanking today.

The question on the tongue of every diplomat was: What changes will Marshall bring into American foreign policy? And the urgency with which an answer was sought was testimony to the paramount role of the United States in world affairs.

Washington's report that Marshall would steer the United States on the bearings fixed by Byrnes was taken at something less than face value by diplomats cognizant of the importance of personalities in the conduct of U. S. foreign policy. The initial reaction in world capitals was wait-and-see.

Amid all the hubbub over the change, the only one of the central figures who had nothing whatever to say for the moment was Marshall himself. He was somewhere over the western Pacific, flying home from 13 arduous months in China, where he had been trying in vain to promote peace between the Nationalists and Communists.

Leaving Nanking about half an hour after word of his new assignment was released here, Marshall planned a three-day stop in Honolulu, where he will join Mrs. Marshall, then a flight to Washington late next week.

* * *

Presidential Possibility.

Despite world uncertainty, U. S. diplomatic and congressional leaders agreed that Marshall would "carry on" with the talk of constructing world peace where Byrnes leaves off.

Hence capital interest in his future policies was equalled if not exceeded by the fact that as secretary of state the five-star general will become first in line for succession to the presidency and—whether he likes it or not—a leading figure among the 1948 Democratic presidential possibilities.

Democratic and Republican members of congress alike lauded Marshall's selection, tempering their comment only with regret at Byrnes' departure.

At 66, Marshall is stepping into one of his most difficult and critical tasks. As army chief of staff he did much to design the strategy of Allied victory. As secretary of state he will have possibly a greater responsibility—that of working with the foreign ministers of other major powers to complete the structure of peace.

* * *

Byrnes' Health Poor.

Byrnes, only little more than a year older than Marshall, attributed his resignation to doctors' advice early last year that he had to "slow down." He said he could not remain secretary of state and do that.

Byrnes first asked last April 16 to be allowed to resign on July 1, expecting the European satellite peace treaties would be complete by then.

This was revealed in an exchange of correspondence with President Truman made public by the White House last night.

When the treaties were not finished in mid-1946 Byrnes agreed with Mr. Truman to see the job through. It was finished in early December and on the 19th Byrnes restated his desire to quit effective Jan. 10 or as soon as his successor was qualified.

TRUMAN HITS TAX CHANGES

President Calls For Higher Wages, Increased Social Benefits, Rent Control.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman told congress today the way to keep America prosperous in 1947 is to leave taxes alone, raise minimum wages, increase social security benefits, broaden coverage of the wage-hour law and maintain rent controls.

It would be "unsound fiscal policy" to cut wartime income taxes, the chief executive declared in his first annual economic report to the legislative branch.

The main approach to balancing "real purchasing power" with productive capacity, he said, "must be through reduced prices."

Taxes should be kept at present levels, Mr. Truman asserted, because of "the rule of sound public finance that calls for surplus in government revenues over expenditures while employment is high and the total income is large."

Voices Caution.

He conceded the tax burden is great and should be lightened "as soon as possible," but he cautioned:

"When reductions come, it will be important that they be fairly and equitably distributed, that they contribute to the maintenance of purchasing power by reducing the burden on the mass of consumers, and that they help provide the work and business incentives essential for a high level of production."

The president's lengthy report, based on studies by his new economic council, began on this cheerful note:

"As the year 1947 opens America has never been so strong or so prosperous. Nor have our prospects ever been brighter."

Mr. Truman said he and the American people reject "the notion we must have another depression."

In addition to immediate action toward raising minimum wages, the president said, congress should adopt a long-range housing program, encourage construction of a million homes in the next 12 months and adjust public assistance, old age and survivors insurance benefits under the social security act to meet cost of living increases. Mr. Truman mentioned no specific figures in his minimum

1. Enactment of ...slation to prevent discrimination against racial and other minority groups and to bring about efficient coordination of the employment services of the 48 states.

Mr. Truman asked the last congress in vain to establish a permanent fair employment practice commission charged with preventing employment discriminations against minorities.

2 Production incentives for business to expand, thus providing employment and maintaining maximum consumption of agricultural products.

He recommended greater flexibility in the government's farm price support program to avoid the danger of keeping the level "too high."

3. Encouragement of "free enterprise" by (a) amendment of the anti-trust laws to prohibit mergers through acquisition of assets or stock control, and (b) easier long-term credit to "small and promising business enterprises."

4. Adjustment of federal retirement and pension systems to "the size and composition of our labor force," increased social security benefits and expansion of peacetime programs of "public health, nutrition and education."

5. Reciprocal reduction of trade barriers. Mr. Truman cited progress in the formation of an international trade organization as "the most important step that we can take to reestablish a high volume of trade on a sound basis."

6. A well-integrated program of employment stabilization, "improvements in the processes by which workers find jobs and employers find workers; improvements in the tax structure; wise management of the public debt and a flexible credit policy."

Asks Revision.

In asking immediate revision of benefit payments under the social security system, Mr. Truman said:

"The congress has already authorized a temporary increase in public assistance benefits. This legislation expires at the end of this year and new legislative action is required.

"Benefits under the old-age and survivors' insurance system should also be adjusted. These measures are necessary to alleviate real hardship which has been aggravated by increases in the cost of living. Beyond that, adequate social security benefit payments provide a desirable support to mass purchasing power."

The president reiterated his endorsement of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill.

As an argument for keeping rent ceilings, Mr. Truman said "a large increase in rents would substantially reduce consumer purchasing power."

He remarked that the government can help to maintain a balance between prices and wages. In this connection he said government buying agencies "will avoid policies that stimulate price increases or prevent reductions," adding:

"Disposal of surplus goods will be speeded. The anti-trust laws will be applied vigorously to prevent and eliminate restrictive practices and pricing abuses."

The wage-hour act should be extended to "classes of workers in interstate commerce now excluded," the president said, without naming them. The act specifically excludes some workers, such as processors of agricultural products

The number of white collar workers in the U. S. grew from under 15 per cent of the working force in 1910 to almost 24 per cent in 1940.

F. H. CAMPAIGN $19,000 SHORT

The Friendly House committee needed approximately $19,000 today to meet its $60,000 goal in the campaign which ends next Wednesday.

Paul Endriss, campaign chairman, said $41,018 has been received. The $3,225 added today represents mail contributions received at campaign headquarters, Endriss added.

Endriss said that in 15 cases individuals who gave earlier to the drive have given second contributions.

The chairman added that one of the most noteworthy contributions to the drive today was $50 from the Hy-fun club, composed of Senior high school students at the YMCA and YWCA.

If the goal is reached, Mansfield manufacturers will provide 70 per cent of the estimated $235,000 cost of a new settlement house.

Today's largest contribution to the fund was $300 from the Moose lodge. Other sizeable donations were from: Local 40, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers (AFL), $125; Mansfield Monument company, $50; Sam Fox, Inc., $50; Local 17, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum, Plastic Workers of America (CIO), $50; Local 735, Carpenters' Union (AFL), $50; Ready-Mix Concrete company, $50; Liberty Park association auxiliary, $15; Gamma Mu Sigma sorority of First Christian church, $10; Eugene Smart music studio, $100; Mansfield Fish company, $25; John Hall distributing company, $100, R. The agency, of which Bechtel has been in charge of since February, 1946, is a division of the Farm Credit administration of the department of agriculture. It makes loans to farmers.

Method Outlined.

Richardson said Bechtel would prepare sight drafts on the association, payable to himself, and cash them at banks in nearby towns. The FBI agent said Bechthis manner.

Aslo, according to Richardson, Bechtel endorsed in his own name repayment checks offered by farmers and cashed them.

Richardson said Bechtel had $140 on his person and a bank account of $400 but that the remainder of the stolen funds were not accounted for.

Bechtel was to be arraigned this afternoon before the U. S. commissioner in Akron on a charge of violating the Farm credit act of 1933. Richardson said a conviction for violation carried a penalty of five years imprisonment and or a $10,000 fine.

What is Wealth?

Wealth is goods. It is food, shelter, clothing . . . hairpins and automobiles, mousetraps and refrigerators, railroad cars and pens that write under water.

And the thing that makes goods is work.

Only with work can we create wealth. A farm has no value until somebody grows and harvests the crop; nor does a forest until someone cuts the trees, a mine until someone brings out the coal.

Without work, money has no meaning. Even if we could suddenly double the number of dollars in every American pocket, we would not increase production by so much as a single shirt or steak. The real wealth of the nation would be unchanged. You can't eat money, or wear it.

But, when people are producing, money provides a convenient means of exchanging work for goods. Men receive it for their labor, and trade it for things made by the labor of others. The thrifty save part of their money—and thus store up part of their work for future use.

In America, we have learned how to use this stored-up work to create new wealth. Millions of thrifty people lump together their savings—their stored-up work—to start new industries, build new factories, buy better tools. By so doing, they increase the facilities for work . . . which steps up the production of goods . . . which means more wealth for the nation.

This productive use of stored-up work is known as investment. It is one of the wonders of our economy. But it has to start with work.

Market Place for the Thrifty

The New York Stock Exchange is the nation's principal market place for investors. It maintains a ready market, at openly disclosed prices, for the securities of millions of Americans who entrust their surplus funds to industry. To them it says this: Base your investment decisions on facts, not on rumors. Facts are your best protection against unnecessary risk.

Deanna Durbin Draws Highest Woman's Pay

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Deanna Durbin, Hollywood singing star, was listed today as the nation's highest paid woman in the latest salary report compiled by the treasury department.

Miss Durbin was paid $310,729.33 by Universal Pictures for the year 1944. The actress replaced Carmen Miranda, the Brazilian bombshell, who led the women's list in a treasury report last June with an income of approximately $200,000 for the same year.

Miss Durbin and her husband, Felix Jackson, were paid an aggregate of $425,603.93 by Universal Pictures to become perhaps the highest paid man and wife combination in the nation.

DEANNA DURBIN

Highest paid individual on today's treasury list was Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines corporation, who earned $425,548.94 in 1944.

However, Watson was not the highest paid person for that year. The June treasury report listed Film Director Leo McCarey as receiving more than $1,000,000 in 1944.

Today's list was a supplement to the one issued in June. Both covered salaries, bonuses and other compensation paid by corporations in the calendar year 1944 or in corporate fiscal years ending in 1945. The treasury is required by law to report such payments of $75,000 or more a year.

Mayer Missing.

Missing from the list was Film Magnate Louis B. Mayer who for many years topped the salary earners. His name may show on a subsequent list. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer reported he is still eligible and that while "he has taken a cut, it isn't that much."

There were 123 individuals listed in the latest report. In the June report for the same period, there were 593 names.

Others in the top brackets were:

Walter Wanger, Universal Pictures producer and husband of Joan Bennett, $301,127.82.

Harry Cohn, Columbia Pictures president, $278,900.

Andrew Jergens, president and director, Andrew Jergens company, Cincinnati, $225,000.

Joseph D. Nelson, Jergens company executive vice president and treasurer, $255,000.

Irene Dunne, Columbia Pictures actress, $245,000.

N. J. Blumberg, executive producer, Universal Pictures, $234,624.04.

J. Cheever Cowdin, board chairman, Universal Pictures, $234,624.04.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, Universal Pictures comedy team, $469,170.60, presumably split equally.

Amedeo Obici, president, general manager and director, Planters Nut & Chocolate company, Suffolk, Va., $223,000.

Among others listed and their salaries:

William O'Neil, board chairman and president, the General Tire & Rubber company, Akron, O., $97,000.

Jack & Heintz, Cleveland manufacturers, listed three executives with salaries of $100,000 or more. They were Ralph M. Heintz, $125,000; William R. Jack, $100,000, and William S. Jack, $125,000.

The United States Shoe corporation, Cincinnati, listed three executives with identical salaries and other compensation amounting to $79,397. They were A. B. Cohen, vice president and general manager; Alvin Salinger, secretary and treasurer, and Joseph S. Stern,, president.

D. A. Currie, president and treasurer, Erie Foundry company, Erie, Pa., $145,835.

TOP NOTABLES WILL GATHER AT INSTITUTE

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—More than a score of the world's leading international politicians will gather here tomorrow for the 21st annual institute of the Cleveland Council on World Affairs, to be climaxed by an important speech by former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

Byrnes and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), will address the concluding session of the institute on Saturday night and are expected to restate U. S. objectives in world affairs.

It will be their first appearance together before the general public and their first public reports since the closing sessions of the United Nations assembly and the foreign ministers conference in New York.

The institute, sponsored jointly by the Cleveland Council on World Affairs and Time magazine, has labeled the three-day forum a "Report From the World" and has scheduled prominent speakers from a dozen foreign countries and the United States. Of the countries invited, only Russia and Yugoslavia failed to send representatives. The speakers will attempt to answer two questions for the general public: "What Does the Rest of the World Expect of the U. S.?" and "What Is the U. S. Going to Do About It?"

The institute has been divided into five major fields including Asia, South America, Western Europe, Central Europe and the United States. Experts in each field will address the separate sessions, with the first on Asia, scheduled for tomorrow night.

Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the U. S., Dr. Henry Van Deusen, head of Union Theological seminary, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, and Henry Luce, editor of Time magazine, will speak at the opening meeting.

Other Speakers.

Those addressing other sessions include:

South America: Oswald Aranha, former Brazilian foreign minister; Sumner Welles, former U. S. undersecretary of state; Rodriguez Larretta, Uruguay foreign minister; Victorio Ocampo, Argentina newspaper executive, and Haya de la Torre, leader of Peru's Aprista party.

Western Europe: Robin Cruikshank, London newspaper director; Maurice Schumann, president of France's Popular Republican movement; E. N. Van Kleffens, Netherlands delegate to the UN; Alcide de Gasperi, Italian foreign minister, and Gen. Omar Bradley, head of the Veterans Administration.

Central Europe: Paul Auer, Hungarian minister to France; John Scott, Time magazine correspondent; Jan Massaryk, Czechoslovakian foreign minister; James Carey, CIO treasurer, and Emid Yalman, Turkey, editor of the Istanbul Vatan.

United States: Byrnes, Vandenberg, Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, and Mildred McAfee, president of Wellesley college.

Byrnes' speech will be broadcast.

Stark to Speak At Meet Tonight

Ceramics will be discussed by R. E. Stark, vice president of the engineering department, Stupakoff Ceramic and Manufacturing company, when he appears as guest speaker tonight for the Mansfield section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

Brother Teams Save Money They Earn On Paper Routes

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Brother teams make good partnerships as far as News-Journal Carriers Clifford and Lloyd Mullet, and Wayne and James Hooper are concerned. These brothers and their pal, Paul Shrader, are the featured "boys of the week."

Between them, Wayne, 11, and James, 9, took care of all their Christmas buying out of their three months' earnings on Route 25 on East Fourth and East Third streets.

* * *

CLIFFORD, 14, AND LLOYD, 13, carry different routes in the city, and they're both saving their money. Cliff's Route 26 has netted him $145 in postal savings and seven $25 savings bonds in three years. Lloyd has set aside $125 from two years' work on Route 46.

Shrader, 16, oldest of the group, has taken care of all his clothing needs and has acquired a bicycle and spending money from two years on Route 111.

The Senior high sophomore, who rates mathematics as his favorite study, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shrader, 352 East Fourth street.

* * *

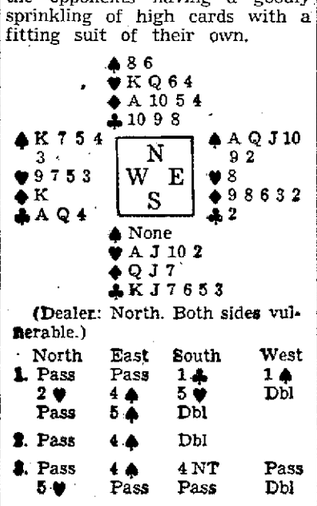
WHEN CLIFFORD MULLET'S papers are all on the front porches of his 86 customers, his time is free for assemblying radios, which he considers his hobby. Lloyd's spare time is spent with Boy Scout Troop 5 and working with his collection of German money, medals, canteens and other military items supplied for the most part by his route customers. The brothers, both Johnny Appleseed Junior high pupils, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Mullet, 244 Greenlawn avenue.

James Hooper, a Hedges third grader, takes one side of the street while his brother, Wayne, takes the other. All told, the boys serve 83 customers seven days a week. So far, Jimmy's interests have been seasonal, or as he says, "swimming in the summer and sliding in the winter."

Wayne, who is two years ahead of his brother at Hedges, is pretty fond of shop work at the YMCA and hopes to join Boy Scout Troop 5 soon. The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper, 53 Bentley street.

Barclay On Bridge

One of the toughest guessing games possible at the bridge table enlists the participation of both pairs after one player has made a pre-emptive bid. It is especially lively if the high bidder's partner has some of his suit and extreme shortage elsewhere, with the opponents having a goodly sprinkling of high cards with a fitting suit of their own.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	4 ♠	5 ♥	Dbl
Pass	5 ♠	Dbl
2. Pass	4 ♠	Dbl
3. Pass	4 ♠	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl

There were plenty of other denouements where East opened with 4-Spades, as he did at most tables of a big duplicate. It seemed to be a preferred bid because the long diamonds offered a number of tricks in addition to those in spades. East passed at only two tables, following which South opened with 1-Club and approximately the same bidding ensued at both.

The result at Table 2 was due to a misunderstanding. North thought his partner's double was for business, so the business pass by North presented East with some unearned points when he got an extra trick. The South who bid 4-No Trumps, meaning it as a force for a takeout in some other suit, got his side a good score, as it was set only one by a lead of the club 2 to the J and Q, the club A and ruff of a club.

Practically everybody who reached 5-Spades made it by plentiful ruffing, losing only one trick in each red suit.

CHEAPER CARS TERMED VITAL

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Automobile manufacturers must build lighter, more efficient and cheaper cars if they want their products to "fall within the means of millions in this country," the Society of Automotive Engineers was told today.

W. D. Appel of Willys-Overland, Motors, Inc., Toledo, O., warned that if this is not accomplished, the industry also may lose "its dominant position in world trade."

The society, at its annual meeting in progress here, also learned today of new methods of heating and ventilating passenger cars, improving "cold starting" techniques in aircraft engines, and eliminating smoke from Diesel engines.

Last night, the engineers heard a plea from Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie of the Air Materiel Command for an Army Air Force aeronautical research and development program, budgeted at $250,000,000 annually, and operated in cooperation with science and industry.

Tonight, more than 4,000 are expected to hear Secretary of Commerce W. Averill Harriman's address on "Free Enterprise and the Future."

Appell said really light-weight vehicles can be turned out when beauty of design gives way to more functional use. He suggested the use of light metal alloys, higher stresses, and the elimination of machining operations and unnecessary parts as a means to that end.

Gyro Clubs in 4 States to Send Delegates to Sessions Here

EDMUND L. KAGY

Representatives of Gyro clubs in District 1 will hold their convention in Mansfield Friday and Saturday, J. F. Orr, general conference chairman, said today.

Speakers will include high officials of the Gyro organization. Sessions will be at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Among them will be Edmund L. Kagy, of Cleveland, international secretary-treasurer and one of the men who helped organize the club in 1912. Others will include Al Hartman, also of Cleveland, assistant to Kagy; C. W. Higgs, district governor, and Joseph Bricle, district secretary, both of Pittsburgh; N. V. Sweet of Cleveland, past district governor, and C. W. St. Clair of Painesville, also a past district governor.

Sessions will start Friday at 6:30 p. m. with a cocktail party at the hotel, followed by dinner and a program. Max Worthley is president of the Mansfield club.

Saturday's sessions will begin at 10 a. m. The conference is expected to be over by 4 p. m.

There are 12 Gyro clubs in this district. They are in Mansfield, Painesville, Canton, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Cleveland and Cleveland Heights, Indianapolis, Ind., Miami and Tampa, Fla., and Atlanta, Ga.

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1947

Noting a changed situation, an old saw has been revised to read: "It now takes a champagne income to support a beer appetite."

Seems odd that the "capitalistic" United States is the only country being looked to for money to carry on the fight against "capitalism."

There's just a bare possibility that civilization has advanced to the point at which the senate can be induced to rule out the filibuster—an instrument by which even an inconsequential minority can defeat the purpose of an overwhelming majority.

County and City Require More Money

REGARDLESS of how gently the news may be broken, there's no getting away from the fact that considerable additional money will be required in operating the various departments of county and city government this year—not only to meet reasonable pay boosts for employes but also to replace wornout equipment and expand services to better accord with the needs of a growing city and county.

For Richland county purposes the commissioners have approved the largest appropriation bill in the county's history, with increases granted practically all departments, and a substantial increase in the city of Mansfield's operating costs is also foreseen by officials.

Voters have already sanctioned a public school improvement program and an increase in school operating costs, with approval of immediate raises in teachers' pay. This is in accord with a nation-wide movement to bring the compensation of teachers and school officials to a level that is more nearly commensurate with qualifications and educational requirements, so as to hold capable teachers in that work and to attract more intelligent young people to the teaching profession.

Recognizing justification for all of these increasing costs of operating public business, it must be taken into account, however, that the only source of revenues required to meet these costs is some form of taxation, and it seems proper to inquire if plans are in process for financing steadily increasing operating costs.

Much of the money now used in county operations comes from state funds—including road improvement work, subsidies for schools, old age pensions, aid to dependent children, and the like—but this is also derived from some form of taxation.

Real estate and personal property taxes provide practically the only direct revenues for local subdivisions, with approval by voters required for any levy above the 10-mill constitutional limit fixed many years ago.

While there has been a considerable jump in the price of property within the past year there has been no re-appraisal since 1943, and it is explained that this was not as complete as is ordinarily conducted every six years, due to inability to secure capable appraisers to make the canvass of city and county.

In the meantime, however, attention is given to correcting any obvious inequalities that may appear in actual values as contrasted with values listed for taxation.

Present inclination, apparently, is to attempt to finance increasing costs out of available and prospective revenues—awaiting outcome of predictions that a "recession," if not an actual depression, is in the offing—rather than to take immediate steps to increase taxes, either by upping real estate valuations or proposing further tax levies.

Use of Atomic Bomb Justified

ANSWERING what he calls "the wishful thinking among those after-the-event strategists who now deplore the use of the atomic bomb," Karl T. Compton writes impressively in the Atlantic Monthly. Dr. Compton, since 1930 head of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as a scientist was actively identified with the bomb experiments, was an observer on Gen. MacArthur's staff, and immediately after V-J day was in Japan interviewing leading Japanese military and scientists, many of the latter personal friends.

Dr. Compton believes use of the bomb on the two Japanese cities saved "hundreds of thousands—perhaps several millions—of lives, both Americans and Japanese." Though Japan was already beaten in one sense, from his on-the-ground research he is convinced that in the words of the Japanese themselves, "Japan would have fanatically defended her homeland until all Japanese were killed." The invasion, set for November, 1945, would therefore have been a slaughter of both Japanese and Americans.

The bomb was inhuman—as is all war—Dr. Compton agrees, but it brought less destruction of life and property at Hiroshima and Nagasaki combined than did the B-29 raids over Tokyo. Use of the bomb over a city was necessary to indicate what it could do to a community. A second bomb was needed to show that it was not an isolated weapon, and therefore to clinch surrender.

Dr. Compton's conclusion deserves attention from all Americans: Considering what 500 bombers, each carrying an atomic bomb, could do to the City of Tomorrow, America must, while striving generously to promote a United Nations' peace, "not lightly surrender the bomb as means for her own defense." America should share it only when an international peace plan is adopted in which we can have great confidence.

As one observer sees it: "You can always tell when a politician is getting ready to run for the presidency. The first thing he does is to announce that he is not a candidate."

It may be hoped that the people who voted for Bilbo will find someone to read to them about what people outside of Mississippi think of him—and them.

A Harvard professor now confidently asserts that "the egg came before the chicken"—so that is finally settled . . . or is it?

Overheard on a bus, as reported by Clyde Moore: "He isn't exactly a dope. He just wears his face in neutral most of the time."

ANOTHER HORSE THAT NEED HARNESSING

Lobbyists Block Proposed Probe Of Alleged Newsprint Monopoly

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Seventy-one-year-old Senator Jim Murray of Montana, Democrat, let loose some fighting words at younger Senator Kenneth Wherry, Nebraska Republican, when the latter confronted him with the flat announcement that the Republicans had called off the senate small business probe of the newspaper and newsprint monopoly.

A month earlier, when Wherry delayed the investigation, thereby getting in wrong with certain Nebraska newspaper constituents, Murray had come to his Republican colleague's rescue. Together they issued a joint statement that the news probe would definitely be held January 7. This compromise statement was made early in December, when the Democrats still controlled the senate and when Murray could have proceeded on his own.

However, he relied on Wherry's word that the hearings would be held in January—even though the Republicans then would be in control.

Last week, however, after whispered conferences with GOP kingmakers Taft and White, Wherry abruptly strode across the senate floor to inform Murray:

"You will not begin hearings on Tuesday morning. The whole thing is off."

"You —— ——!" exploded the tall Montana senator.

However, he was helpless. With the Republicans in the majority, there was nothing he could do. Accordingly, about 40 scheduled witnesses, some en route from various parts of the country, were called off. Among them was Secretary of the Interior Krug who planned to propose that Alaskan forests be open for American newsprint—if congress gave him the proper authority and co-operation.

More People Can Read.

Working at cross-purposes regarding this investigation were two sets of circumstances and lobbyists. One was the fact that there now are 1,000,000,000 people in the world who can read. And the greater the number of people who can read, the greater the demand for newspapers and newsprint.

Russia, once with only 25 per cent of its people literate, now is 75 per cent literate. Education also has increased in Latin America, Europe, Asia and the United States. Thus the problem of newsprint is serious and will become more so.

Simultaneously, the big magazines, especially Time, Life, Fortune, the Saturday Evening Post, the big trade journals, such as Iron Age; and some of the big newspapers, such as the Chicago Tribune, New York News and New York Times have cornered many of the pulp mills of the United States and Canada. This has left scores of smaller papers out in the cold.

Approximately 1,000 of these smaller papers had written to Senator Murray urging that the senate small business committee probe the news monopoly. On the other hand, the big newspapers, magazines and trade journals were dead opposed. One of the lobbyists, William L. Dailey of the National Editorial association (actually a lobbying front for the big trade journals), was busy as a bird dog trying to kill the investigation.

Another probe opponent was Senator Taft, whose family owns the prosperous Cincinnati Times-Star, and who gets enthusiastic political backing from his close friend Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune.

Another thing which worried the big boys were certain facts which the small business committee planned to expose regarding post office subsidies to big magazines.

The committee was planning to show, for instance, that Time, Life and Fortune received a subsidy from the U. S. post office department of $3,500,000 a year, while most daily newspapers get only a pittance of post office subsidy from second-class mailing privileges.

Another thing that worried the big moguls was the senate committee's discovery that the post office department had never made any analysis of the statements of newspaper and magazine ownership filed with it quarterly in order to enjoy second class rates.

The small business committee was digging into these files in order to ascertain how many magazines and papers were owned by the copper companies (as in Montana), how many by the railroads and other big interests.

This embarrassing curiosity apparently was too alarming for Senators Wherry, Taft and White; so Wherry's previous pledge to Senator Murray was thrown overboard.

Note 1—If the Republicans later go ahead with a face-saving probe, it will be only after ousting the inquisitive investigators who dug up so much embarrassing dirt for Chairman Murray.

Note 2—It was the monopoly of the news channels which molded public opinion which allowed Hitler to become supreme in Germany.

The Strategy of Bilbo.

It was Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, with backstage support from Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who forced the closed-door GOP steering committee to take a definite stand for the immediate barring of Senator Bilbo.

Senator Taft had proposed that the fight on Bilbo be deferred until after the president's message on the state of the union. Fearing such a move, Morse had talked things over before-hand with Vandenberg, as well as with Senators Knowland of California and Hickenlooper of Iowa. All agreed that the best Bilbo strategy was for the senate to stay in continuous session.

Senator Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia, however, was ready to follow Taft's proposal. He wanted to hear the president's message, he said, and he thought his colleagues did too.

"I find myself in complete disagreement with the senator from West Virginia," countered Vandenberg, thereby diplomatically passing over the fact that he was also in complete disagreement with Taft. "I think we Republicans have got to carry this fight through now, and the way to do it is by staying in continuous session."

Morse could not resist the temptation also to take issue with Revercomb.

"I don't want to hear any message from the president before this senate is organized," he said. "I remember that the last time the president addressed a joint session he asked us to do something unconstitutional and it was rushed through the house and we had a lot of trouble holding it up here. (Truman's proposal to draft railway strikers.) For all I know, the president may ask something unconstitutional again, and I for one want to know that we are in position to organize to block any precipitate action for which we will be sorry later."

Finally, Taft yielded and word was passed around that the Republicans were prepared to sit it out indefinitely. This decision was a major factor in the Democratic compromise to keep Bilbo from his seat for two months.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Jan. 8, 1927.

Richland county budget for the year, as allowed by commissioners, totaled $1,100,270.21, with $475,000 required for payment of outstanding bonds and interest.

Richard S. Barr resigned as city dairy and food inspector to devote time to private chemistry work, with laboratory in Bird building.

Henry R. Platt was installed as president of Amima club at meeting held at Elks grill.

Mansfield friends of Miss Adelaide Robinson, Broadway actress, received announcement of her marriage to Vincent Kilfeather, in New York City.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wright, 82 East Fourth street.

Mrs. William Case, 65, of 62 Superior street, died.

Macedonian group presented play, "The Telephone Without Any Line," at Friendly House.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Bottles! Rattles!! Pacifiers!!! Not a comic book in the place!"

Dave Boone Says:

"LET US have the will and the patience to do this job together. May the Lord strengthen us in our faith. May He give us wisdom to lead the people of the world in His ways of peace." It was this spiritual note in the president's address that drew the greatest applause, far exceeding any other paragraph.

* * *

All in all, it was an address of the highest levels and I think Harry Truman made the best impression he has yet made in any public address. He seemed to me like a good Democrat some of the time and a good Republican some of the time, but a good American all the time.

* * *

Of course, the spectacle of a Democrat coming out for balancing the budget, paying something off on our debts and living within our means was startling, and a good many folks asked for confirmation.

* * *

It wasn't the "get tough" speech that some folks had predicted but the president minced no words on laws to stop jurisdictional strikes and to force faithful adherence to contracts by both sides. For a political leader in a hot spot he did mighty well.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Successful Exponent Of Crime Prevention.

WASHINGTON — There were so many other things going on that nobody paid much attention when he quit.

Yet it might be that they should have noticed. . . .

Frank J. Wilson was his name. For 26 years, he was a treasury department law enforcement officer. That's what he liked to consider himself up until the day he retired—a few days ago.

But it undoubtedly would mean more if the average individual realized that he was retiring as chief of the nation's secret service.

Just one year short of 60, he's going back to Buffalo now to sail boats—and probably up there nobody pays much attention to him. And that undoubtedly is the way Frank Wilson likes it.

Still, though, it might not be a bad idea to listen to some of his ideas on the day he quit. You see, for all those years he had been involved in the protection of the president of the United States and all the visiting potentates of other countries.

A dead president would have been no good to the country, even though you caught the man who killed him.

Perhaps that's why Frank Wilson feels that prevention of a crime is infinitely more important than catching the criminal and punishing him after the crime has been committed.

You take the matter of counterfeit money, for instance. In 1936, more than 100,000 persons in the country lost from a million to a million and half dollars because of counterfeiters.

What did the secret service do, at Wilson's instigation? Well, they had every filling station attendant in one state, for instance, write down the license number of the individual who gave them every single bill—even the one's and the five's.

Then they instituted a "know your money" program in the schools, with students studying the booklets they issued. Maybe the kids didn't really learn a lot about individual bills, but certainly they were conscious of counterfeiters—who previously had used the youngsters as foils for passing most of their phoney money.

What was the result? During the past year, the people who lost money to counterfeiters numbered less than five per cent of the total ten years ago. The percentage of money lost was even less than that.

In short, Frank Wilson's policy of prevention—rather than catch, punishment and cure—seemed to have worked.

In an interview on the day Frank quit, he said that "if you want to know the cause of juvenile delinquency, if you want to know the reason for vandalism in the neighborhood, or why kids steal automobiles—then look into the parental qualifications of mom and pop. You'll more likely get the answer there than from the boy or girl who has gone wrong . . ."

He really believes that. He also thinks that concentration of industry, which draws hordes of people into big cities, causes increases in crimes. He's in favor of getting back to the "little white cottage and picket fence," and thinks that if you "give the kids a yard to play in," you'll eliminate more than half the crime of the country.

He carries his prevention theories through. Right now, auto thefts happen to be the No. 1 crime of the country. Why?

"Too many people leave their keys in their cars," he said. "We are trying to convince all manufacturers that they should make locks so that the engine can't be turned off unless the key is taken out of the lock. That is crime prevention."

The man who successfully protected presidents and potentates quit before that plan was carried out, but enough people are convinced he's right to keep his ideas circulating.

You may have to take the key out of the next car you buy before you turn it off—just so you won't tempt the kids!

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE rear guard of the Democrats has begun to arrive from Washington. Huddled uncomplainingly in day coaches.

* * *

Some got away to Maryland where they are being well fed pending a ballot recount but traveling through Pennsylvania, shades are drawn to keep the curious from witnessing the agonies.

* * *

One poor fellow who sneaked into the gallery of congress for the opening shuddered "it was awful . . . All those Republican faces and Sam Rayburn and Alben Barkley being so brave!"

* * *

But the Democrats aren't taking this lying down . . . Leon Henderson is organizing one resistance movement and Henry Wallace is active in another.

* * *

Soon the progressive citizens of America and the Americans for Democratic Action will move out from their headquarters . . . banners flying and the battle will be on.

Democrats Pin Hopes on Republican Mistakes.

WASHINGTON—Now that the smoke and stench of the Bilbo fight has cleared away at least temporarily and Republicans have organized the new congress, there begins to emerge in clearer perspective the political pattern that will be significant for the next two years.

Republicans have exhibited remarkable unity despite preliminary squabbles over posts of influence natural to a party coming back to power after long absence, and despite the conflict between conservative and progressive elements. The conflict, which will affect issues and candidates for the 1948 nomination, will show itself later, from time to time.

The aspect of unity was helped by the GOP decision—and it was skillful as well as fundamentally just—to raise at the outset the appealing issue of public morals and civil liberties involved in the Bilbo case.

This was something upon which the party could unite. It was something which, at the same time, would show the disunity within the Democratic minority.

It brought into vivid contrast the worst face of the Democratic party which was exhibited when the southern bloc staged one of those frequent filibusters for a lost and unpopular cause that always irritates the public at large, aside from some elements in the South.

Democrats plainly got off to a bad start in this congress. In the shabby Bilbo spectacle, as well as in other events prior to and incident to the convening of congress, they laid bare the dissension and confusion that was so apparent in the election campaign.

The split in the party in congress was revealed in various ways in the opening proceedings. It appeared when Senator Taylor (D., Idaho) rose to stel the show on behalf of the handful of eastern and western Democrats who wanted to oust Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.), on one hand, and, on the other, by Senator Overton (D., La.), who rose as champion of the South to protect the Mississippian.

The split was revealed also, for example, in the adamant statement of opposition by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), to any change in the labor act which he sponsored, and the sweeping bill for revision of that act introduced by one of the most influential southern Democrats in the house, Rep. Smith (Va.).

Esatblished precedents point to capture of the White House by Republicans in 1948. Democrats have countered hopefully that perhaps they can recoup in the next two years by Republican mistakes.

But it hardly seems possible that Republicans can make enough mistakes to offset Democratic ineptitude caused by the varous schisms within their ranks, and their failure to find a common program upon which a large body of the party can unite.

The progressive wing of the Democratic party is handicapped in congress by the whittling down of its strength. Southern conservatives hold the whip hand.

This will give Republicans the opportunity to embarrass and split the Democrats constantly. On such issues as the Bilbo case and the anti-poll tax bill, which they expect to bring up in time, they will attract progressive Democrats and isolate the southerners, and on economic issues they will attract the southerners and isolate the progressives. This will offer the constant spectacle of Democratic confusion and disunity.

Standpatters Still Favor Protective Tariff.

WASHINGTON — In the brief biography which he supplies for the record, Representative Harold Knutson lists his home as Manhattan Beach, Minnesota. But it has been a long time since Manhattan Beach in Minnesota's resort country has been anything but a temporary stopping point for Congressman Knutson.

Since 1917, Knutson has been a member of congress. He is a prime example of how the seniority system works in congress.

Stocky, bull-voiced Congressman Knutson has through the years ridden the convenient escalator of seniority. It has carried him up and, with him, a set of prejudices and convictions that are at least pre-World War I, if not pre-Spanish-American war.

Now, thanks to the seniority escalator, Knutson becomes chairman of the ways and means committee of the house. Thereby he becomes one of the most powerful figures in the new congress.

The functions of this committee, unchanged by the congressional reorganization, are extremely important. It has to do with revenues, the federal debt, tariffs and reciprocal trade. These are the very matters most likely to determine U. S. policy in the coming months.

Through the years, Knutson has made himself the spokesman of big business. He can always be counted on to echo the desires not of the enlightened wing of business, such as is represented on the committee for economic development, but of the standpatters who think in terms of unlimited profits behind the protection of a government tariff wall.

In introducing a bill to cut income tax by 20 per cent, Knutson is being perfectly consistent. Such a tax cut will mean greater benefit for the big taxpayer in the upper brackets and only very slight benefit for the man with a small income on the lower levels of the income tax pyramid.

As a gesture to those who have criticized the proposal, Knutson has made the 20 per cent cut apply only to incomes up to $300,000 a year. Above $300,000, the cut will be only 10.5 per cent. But this is an empty and rather silly gesture, since only about 600 persons in 1943 received more than $300,000 annually. Some of Knutson's Republican colleagues had hoped that the 20 per cent cut—a part of campaign oratory—would be forgotten.

But the danger inherent in Knutson's power-plus-prejudice is not so much on the positive as on the negative side. Republicans of more sober look, with a consciousness of the need to scale down the federal debt, are likely to check the 20 per cent rampage. Even if it should be approved by the house, it would almost certainly be stopped in the senate.

On the negative side, however, as a blocking tackle, Knutson can do great harm. He can block those steps which must be taken if the United States is to lead the way toward a revival of world trade.

We are the only country that can lead such a revival. When full production is achieved and the backlog of demands is satisfied in this country, we shall need to send our goods into world markets. The 10 per cent that we export may well be the margin between prosperity and the serious lack of it.

Apparently in his own staunchly Republican district, Knutson has never had to worry about public opinion. He can become the mouthpiece of reactionary business and yet the voters of the Sixth Minnesota district send him back to Washington time after time.

The solid figure of Harold Knutson moving up on the seniority escalator, his prejudices out of the past untouched and intact, is a symbol of today.

Farmer's Diary: "Flooded Out."

I WALKED down through my neighbor's pasture, against a sharp, bitter west wind. The frozen turf beneath my feet seemed lifeless. For several days and nights the open ground froze deeper, and the water in the brooks fell to lower level. Several hollows were long narrow ponds, and at one place, on a gravelly rise, a woodchuck's burrow was almost filled with water, at both entrance and exit.

I knew he could not have stayed inside and remained alive. I thought perhaps Nature's way of waking him by letting in a little water at a time was far better than dashing it all into his face at once. But it must have been a rude awakening.

I felt sorry, too, for if he did not find another burrow on higher ground, he must be wandering out in the open. I looked about but saw no evidence. Returning along the old rail fence near the graveled road, I noticed a narrow dark line of fur blowing in the wind. It was so like the gray-green withered strands of grass that I lost the place, and stood watching and shivering for some minutes before it revealed itself again.

I walked up closer. There with flank and belly buried deep in loose unfrozen sod, I recognized the wandering woodchuck. No human being could have solved the housing shortage better, in so short a time. There he lay, apparently as inert as the soft deep humus all about him.

That afternoon it snowed an inch or so. Next morning I walked down the highway to the rustic middle fence to see how my wild friend had fared. I ran my hands about the uneven surface of the snow that had fallen lightly upon his quarters. The woodchuck had left.

Just beyond the corner of the alternating weathered rail ends I saw a track and where a furry belly dragged in the snow. Smiling because he had left evidence of his course, I followed. He was heading instinctively for higher ground, where the land had never flooded.

He crawled through a low place beneath the woven fence—the only possible place for four rods either way where he might have squeezed through. He struggled upgrade over edges of sharp-cut sprouts onto the highway level, crossed the road, where only two cars had passed since the snow, climbed the high, farther bank and went straight to another woodchuck burrow, 30 feet beyond.

Even in his semi-torpid state, he seemed to know how to go unswervingly to a shelter made by another of his kind. As I noticed where he broke through the fragile gate of snow that barred the entrance, I wished him health and rest and a safe, happy new year.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

To Dance Attendance.

Used figuratively to indicate servility, the expression "dance attendance" comes down to us from the middle ages, when it had a literal meaning.

The allusion was to the old wedding custom which obligated the bride to dance with anyone who requested her to do so. Mention of this practice is found in many 15th and 16th century works, including Christen's "State of Matrimony," published in 1543.

ARMY ARRANGES RESUMPTION OF ROTC TRAINING

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Gen Jacob L. Devers, Army Ground Forces commander, announced today the resumption of ROTC summer training for the first time since World War II

Students in advanced courses of the Senior ROTC at colleges throughout the nation will attend camp for six weeks this summer. They will receive $75 a month pay—the same as an army private—plus travel expenses at the rate of five cents per mile from school to camp and return

The training will consist of either five eight-hour days, or four eight-hour days and two four-hour days, at the discretion of camp commanders

About one-half of the training period will be devoted to instruction in subjects common to all branches of the service The remaining part will be devoted to tactics and techniques of individual branches.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A story that appears in an old English miscellany published in 1841, (sent me by Fred Schang of the Metropolitan Concert Bureau), and that probably dates back even further than that, is still standing vaudeville monologists in good stead.

The latest version begins with a wealthy planter returning from a trip to New York, and greeting the faithful old coachman at the station with a, "Well, did anything happen while I was gone?"

"Nothing worth mentioning, sir," answers the coachman cheerily "'Cept, of course, the two hands who died from eating burnt horse flesh"

"Where on earth did they get hold of that?" "When the stables caught fire" "The stables?" "Yessir, sparks from the big house, they figger"

"The big house' Sparks! How did the fire start?"

"From the candles round the coffin, sir. Place burned to the ground afore we could do a thing"

"Good heavens, man! Whose coffin?"

"Your ma, sir I guess she died from the shock"

"What shock?"

"Your wife, sir She ran away with the butler"

Soroptimists to Organize Junior Venture Club Here

SOROPTIMIST members made plans for the organization of a Venture club, a junior organization sponsored by Soroptimist clubs, at the luncheon meeting in the club room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Adams, president, is acting chairman for the party scheduled for the evening of Feb. 18 for prospective Venture club members in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The Venture club of Cleveland will give a program at that time.

Plans were also made for a future tea with Mrs. H. P. Weimer, chairman of the committee in charge. Committee members are Miss Theresa Peiffer and Mrs Mary Weinberger.

The organization voted a donation to Friendly House and it was announced that Miss Peiffer would act as corresponding secretary for the remainder of the club year.

* * *

Monday evening Mrs. Harold Adams entertained board members of the organization for dinner at her home on East Raleigh avenue.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Todd of Chicago, Ill., visited Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Faught, Wooster road, over the weekend.

* * *

Miss Winnie Hamilton returned to Detroit, Mich., after spending two weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Lawrence Wagner, 316 Myers avenue.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The Alumni committee, Women of the Moose, will not meet tonight as scheduled at the home of Mrs. Ray Fry, Lexington.

Officers of Spanish War Veterans' Organizations Installed at Meeting

Officers of the Spanish War Veterans auxiliary and the Charles Dick camp were installed at a joint meeting by T. L. Brown, presiding for the camp and Mrs. B. C. Summerville for the auxiliary, last night at Memorial hall . Mrs Hattie Seymour will head the women's organization while F. A. Schlemer is new commander of the camp.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Seymour, committee reports were given and a donation voted to Friendly House. Mrs. Charles Hall, chaplain, gave the prayer, while Mrs. Summerville, patriotic instructor, and Mrs. A. L. Blakley presented short talks.

Gifts to the installing officers were presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell.

January 21 the auxiliary will meet in Memorial hall.

* * *

Members of the Marquis Sewing circle met during the afternoon at Memorial hall. Hostesses for the meeting and dinner were Mrs. Alice Oster and Mrs. Georgie Bell. Jan. 16 there will be an all-day meeting.

Miss Joan Uhl Sets Nuptial Date

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Uhl, Grace street, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan, to Ralph Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simpson, Fourth avenue.

The ceremony will be performed Jan. 11 by Rev. Herman L. Gilbert in the St. Paul Lutheran church at 11 a. m.

Miss Uhl and Mr. Simpson both attended Mansfield Senior high school and Mr. Simpson is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Study Club Entertained At Carrigan Home

Mrs. John Daley spoke on "Corporatism" at the meeting of the Little Flower Study club yesterday. Miss Nell Carrigan was hostess to the club at her home on Cline avenue.

Mrs. Emmett Casey gave the prayer.

It was announced that Roger Bolin would speak on "Communism" at the Jan. 20 meeting at the home of Miss Edna Horning, First street.

Sandals, Bright Colors, Swishing Capes To Bring Men's Clothing Up to Date

By ALINE MOSBY

(UP Hollywood Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Men, Ann Dvorak wants to dress you in open-toed sandals, satin collars and long, swishing capes. Don't flinch. She predicts you'll weaken before long, so give your suits to the Salvation Army and bend an ear to what you'll be wearing instead.

First of all, fellows, your clothes are unflattering, uncomfortable and unappealing That's what the lady said.

Furthermore, Ann told us, men are 50 years behind the times.

"We have new styles in cars, don't we, and fountain pens and telephones. And what are men doing? Still wearing those silly suits."

So all right, men. Starting with your shoelaces and going up, Ann cried that what men buy for foot coverage is "perfectly awful."

"Those ugly oxfords," she said. "Why don't men wear loafers, or sandals with a strap or two."

Men's socks and underwear will pass but their suits go to the bottom of the class. Wait; Miss Dvorak's not in favor of putting men in skirts, like the Scotch, nor short pants, like the Tyroleans.

"Men's legs are so horrible they'd beter stay covered," she said. "But at least make their pants in softer materials and in colors—mustard yellow and baby blue."

Suit jackets, she continued, should be Cardigan style, minus lapels which are silly things good only for holding buttonnieres.

"Lapels are vestigal. Years ago men used to button up their suit coats around their throats, but they don't now so why keep the lapels?"

Ditto buttons on suit sleeves and cuffs on trousers, she said. Toss 'em out.

Miss D. okayed men's shirts, except for stiff collars "which are just a hangover from Herbert Hoover days."

Ann said there was some point to a tie if it held your shirt together and was colorful. If you must wear a tie, let it be the soft, flowing kind, like an artist's, said Ann Otherwise, she advised, give that rackful of Christmas ties to the dog to chew. Ditto your hats and vests. They're useless, too.

This urge to re-dress men came upon Miss Dvorak when she returned to Hollywood after a stretch in the British Ambulance corps.

"Having to wrestle with the tie on my uniform every day exasperated me so that I vowed to do away with men's ties," she explained. "And well, one thing led to another."

Kate Smith, for one, is on Ann's side and has been airing the subject on her radio show.

Miss Dvorak pointed out that Hollywood is the only place where men dress for comfort. Also the only place where you see things like canary yellow pants, fuschia jackets, crimson shirts and huaraches

Mrs. Boyd Wierman, president, presided at the business meeting held before the luncheon served from a table decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and crystal.

George Davis a guest speaker used "Why I Am A Democrat" as his topic.

A guest tea will be held Feb. 4 at the Women's Club with Mrs. Robert Morris as chairman.

Hunger Statistics Cited By Speaker At Sorosis Club

"Displaced Peoples" formed the subject for the comprehensive paper given by Mrs. Ralph Sorenson as the program at a meeting of the Mansfield Sorosis club.

The members who gathered at the Women's Club last evening heard Mrs Sorenson as a guest speaker, state that one out of every four persons in this world is dying of starvation "Hunger is killing more persons, war included, than any other single disease, other than natural causes," said Mrs. Sorenson.

Mrs Anna Proctor will be hostess Jan. 21 at 2:30 p. m. at the Women's Club when Mrs. Le Roy McGinty will present the program on the "Romance of Rugs."

Dorcas Bible Club Responds to Roll With Bible Verse

Each member of the Dorcus Bible club responded to role call with a Bible verse last night when members gathered at the home of Mrs. Robert Horn, Clifton boulevard.

Mrs. Robert Miller led devotions with Mrs. Horn in charge of the lesson study which was the 7th chapter of the Books of Acts. A report was given on the aid given to needy families at Christmas.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 21, at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Lowell Hamilton, Dickson parkway as hostess and Mrs. John Schneider in charge of devotions

SHELBY ENJOYS $700,000 BOOM IN '46 BUILDING

Record Construction Seen Continuing in 1947.

By JOHN GRAY
N-J State Correspondent

SHELBY—The year just ended saw the biggest construction boom in the more than 100-year existance of Shelby, records in the office of Finance Director Chester P. Monn disclosed today.

The boom, which is expected to continue through 1947, resulted in 1940 building permits issued during 1946, with a total of $709,665—largest in the history of Shelby.

Approximately 80 permits were issued for new dwellings here during 1946, as compared with 13 during 1945, when government restrictions still hampered building construction.

Valuation of new construction for which 52 permits were issued in 1945 totaled $105,804: The valuation of new construction in recent years include: 1944, $124,250; 1943, $17,906; 1942, $135,699; 1941, $469,375; and 1940, $115,045.

Largest project started during 1946 was the $275,000 addition for the Municipal Light company. Friebel and Hartman, Shelby contractors, broke ground for the addition to house a third boiler at the plant for which contract was let in July, 1945.

The new office for the Shelby Telephone company, costing approximately $45,000, was started by Friebel and Hartman. A $50,000 addition for the Miller-Shelby Products division was begun last year and is now nearing completion.

The Shelby Lumber company built an addition at an approximate cost of $15,000, while the Bowsher Bakery finished its $10,000 addition.

Ground was broken for an addition to the Shelby Salesbook company, but no building has been erected at the site as yet because of the shortage of materials and labor.

Shelby Church Elects Leaders

SHELBY—Church officers were elected for the First Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday during the annual congregational meeting following the regular morning worship hour.

Chosen as elders were Leslie Hillard and Ray Laser. Deacons elected were Glenn Kuhn, Lyle Reinhart and George Campbell.

The annual congregational meeting at the Ganges Community Reformed church will be held next Sunday after a basket dinner at noon.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health. —Adv.

Frank S. Remy, Mgr.

BUDGET PASSED FOR CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE—City council today had approved a $137,030.56 appropriation for operating the city in 1947, and had authorized tax levies as determined by the budget committee.

At a council meeting Monday night, the group passed the following appropriations: General fund, $4,688; safety fund, $22,940; service fund, $17,902.25; waterworks fund, $62,700; motor vehicle fund, $14,901.31; gasoline, $7,763.88; firemen's pension fund, $1,560.12, and bond payment, $4,575.

F. B Cattey was retained as city solicitor and Erwin Eckert as street commissioner for 1947.

The council approved a resolution authorizing installation of a new manhole on Clink boulevard between Main and Davis streets to relieve congestion. The action followed a protest from property owners in the area.

The council also ordered City Clerk Schill to consult with Ohio Public Service company regarding installation of a traffic light at Main and Thoman streets.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, January 9.

The astral indications are for a sudden turn of events, in which fresh ways and means of a clever or ingenious slant may be significant in bringing to a head certain desired changes, and these of more than ordinary importance. Unique ideas or special techniques might turn such abrupt opening into surprising avenues of adventure, romance or accomplishment. However, there is a tendency to rash, extravagant, bombastic or over-zealous tactics which might invite loss and exact penalties. Meet current obligations before squandering assets or energies on futures.

Those whose birthday it is may find that an abrupt turnabout in the affairs, may bring into light an unexpected opening for a desired change, with new fields of operation or the putting over of certain unique, radical or original plans of particular importance. Innovation or novelty of a progressive and dramatic nature may call for sound management for the best and most lucrative climax. This should not be imperiled by a rash urge to extravagance, show, over-enthusiastic or erratic gestures. There may be obligations or debts to pay before wild indulgent or sensational adventures.

A child born on this day may have splendid talents and original skills for an eventful and dramatic life, but may jeopardise its best interests by rash tactics.
